

Lone Picket Appears At Elementary School Job

Board Plans
No Action
Immediately

A LONE picket appeared yesterday on Route 611 in front of the steel skeleton of the new Arlington Heights Elementary School.

He was assigned to picket the job by Local 367, Electrical Workers Union, Easton.

The electrical contractor on the job—William A. Donmoyer, Allentown—is non-union. His is the only contract of the four let by Stroud Union School Board in April which utilizes non-union labor.

Two things became apparent, within hours after the picket appeared:

The Stroud Union School Board plans no action immediately.

And the electrical workers' union intends to keep the picket in front of the job as long as Donmoyer's men work on either of the district's planned new structures.

Also in question—but not involved at the present time—is the district's new double-wing addition to its present high school. No substantial electrical work can be done at the high school site until more construction is completed. That will take about a month.

Purpose
Earl Kocher, union business agent, said by phone from his home in Easton last night that the picket was placed for "organizational" purposes.

Kocher said that decision to order the picket to appear was not made until recently. He said that up to that time the union's attitude had been that some settlement of the issue involved might be reached.

The picket appeared bright and early yesterday morning. He was "on the job" when Donmoyer's men arrived to go to work, one of the contractor's employees said.

Donmoyer's men continued to work throughout the day. No other men from other phases of the job were on duty.

The picket left the scene at about 3 p. m. Kocher said last night that he would return to the construction site this morning.

Donmoyer's firm won the contract for electrical installation on both construction jobs on a low bid of $288,929. His nearest competitor was Easton Electro Construction Co. of Wind Gap on a bid of $387,886.

Public School At Odds With Supreme Court

HARRISBURG, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Maryland Superintendent of Public Instruction tonight described the U. S. Supreme Court decision banning racial segregation in schools as backing up the principle of dealing with people as individuals and not groups.

"The decision of the Supreme Court on racial segregation was more than anything else a reaffirmation of the principle that people in America must be dealt with as individuals," said Dr. John H. Fischer.

The Maryland educator, in an address prepared for delivery at the 36th Education Congress, criticized the principle of "dealing with people as groups or in terms of stereotypes."

Obvious
He said a negative element against which American education must struggle is the "tendency toward mass living and the consequent submergence of the individual."

"The effects of massing people together are all too easy to see and the consequences are obvious in terms of social ills of many kinds," he declared.

Dr. Fischer warned that the "unsettled" condition of the world today over-emphasizes the value of immediacy and emergency action.

Truman Mails New Letter

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—Harry S. Truman fired off another letter today in the continuing dispute over whether Vice President Richard Nixon ever called the former President a traitor.

It was sent to Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, who recently was asked by Truman to send $1,000 to the Red Cross of Korea because "it has been proved" Nixon had called him a traitor.

Text
In his letter today Truman said: "Your letter of the 15th was no surprise to me, and I appreciated your sending it. It settles the fact that Republicans find it very difficult to keep their promises."

"The statement made by the vice president at Texarkana and on several other occasions were clear and to the point. The Washington Post, whose editorial of Sept. 19, 1950, I enclose, shares this opinion and asserts that you are 'weaseling'."

"Your attitude, although not unexpected, did distress me; I had not anticipated your unwillingness to help the Koreans with a contribution."

FUGITIVES BEDROLLS?—Authorities examine blankets which they believe two escaped inmates of the Monroe County Jail stole from a Sciota home yesterday morning and later discarded. Left to right are State Trooper Donald Henzey, William Bechtel, and Sheriff Jacob F. Altomose.

A CONSTANT VIGIL is kept by the pilot of this plane which circled the Sciota area again and again yesterday in search for Elmer J. Holloway, 22, Sciota, and Wilson Roth, 32, Palmerton, RD 2, who escaped from the Monroe County Jail Tuesday night. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Monroe County Jail Escapees Still On Loose

SCIOTA—Two escaped inmates of the Monroe County jail yesterday played cat-and-mouse with authorities who kept on their trail until darkness fell last night.

Elmer James Holloway, 22, of Sciota, and Wilson Roth, 32, of Palmerton RD 2, managed to elude their armed pursuers until a late hour last night, although police almost nabbed them on at least two occasions during the day.

State Police were aided in their search of the Saylorsburg-Sciota area by a low-flying plane which circled the vicinity again and again. Troopers kept in radio contact with the pilot, who spotted the fugitives at least once during the day.

As the search continued into the night, State Police were convinced the pair broke into at least two cottages, and that they changed their clothing about three times. Troopers also reported that one of the escapees was carrying a bow-and-arrow.

Holloway, who was to go on trial in Monroe County Court yesterday on robbery charges, was being led back into the cell-block Tuesday night after conversing with his attorney about his forthcoming trial. As the cellblock doors were opened, Holloway grabbed the wrist of Deputy Sheriff Leonard Hippler and shouted to Roth to join him. Then they bolted out the side door to freedom.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Harry Miller appeared before President Judge Fred W. Davis yesterday morning and officially informed the court that Holloway and Roth were missing.

Judge Davis thereupon dismissed the jury which already had been drawn to try Holloway on charges stemming from a robbery outside a Foxtown Hill tavern late last year.

The jurist also declared a technical mistrial, and the case was continued.

Sheriff Jacob F. Altomose notified state and local police immediately after the break occurred about 9:15 Tuesday night. The search has been in progress since then.

Stroudsburg State Police had two cruisers patrolling the area throughout the day. Mount Pocono, Fern Ridge and Lehighton each had one patrol car joining in the search. And Sgt. Frank D. Burtnor, in charge of the Stroudsburg Substation, was expecting to ask the Bethlehem Barracks to be on the lookout for the fugitives, should they elude searchers in the Saylorsburg-Sciota area.

State Police also had the help of some 15 men from the Sciota area. All were armed as the search took them through dense woodland and caves.

Troopers and Sheriff Altomose were keeping watch on the home of Holloway's mother during the night. About 5 a. m. yesterday, Trooper Donald Henzey and Steven Sabin saw lights on in the dwelling and headed for the building.

Just as they approached the front door, the troopers heard the escapees dash out the rear into the early morning darkness and fog. A wooded area near the house also thwarted the troopers in their search for the pair.

While at the house, Holloway and Roth discarded the clothing they wore when they broke out of jail, officials said.

Later, police received a report that the Sciota home of Evangelene Henry, a teacher in upstate New York, had been broken into. Authorities believe the escapees left the building with bedrolls and clothing. The bedding later was discarded.

Still later, another cottage was reported to have been burglarized. And, again, police believe the pair took new clothing.

Then, about 5 p. m., they were spotted in the vicinity in back of the Lake House in Saylorsburg. So the search shifted to that area.

When last seen, Holloway was wearing a green shirt, while Roth had on a red shirt. Both were believed to be wearing dungarees or dark trousers.

Meanwhile, State Police warned residents of the area to keep their doors locked, and to take the keys out of their cars. Troopers noted that they found ignition keys in many autos while they searched the area yesterday. Anyone having any information regarding the escapees are advised to notify Stroudsburg State Police immediately. The telephone number is Stroudsburg 120.

Holloway was described as being 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighing 155 pounds, and having three scars on the right side of his neck. He has brown hair and eyes. Roth is 5 feet 11 inches, and weighs 190 pounds. He has brown hair and blue eyes.

U. N. Security Council Votes For Debate On Suez Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—The U. N. Security Council today approved a far-ranging debate beginning next week on the Suez Canal crisis in a desperate attempt to find a peaceful solution.

Acting two months to the day after President Nasser seized the 103-mile waterway, the Council unanimously put on its agenda a British-French proposal for debate on the situation created by Egypt's action.

Then the Council voted 7-0 to put on its business sheet a counter-complaint by Egypt alleging the actions of Britain and France against Egypt had violated the charter and threatened international peace.

Britain, France, Australia and Belgium abstained on that item. The United States, Soviet Union and five other members of the Council voted to have it debated.

Make Plans
As the Council met, foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France, Egypt and Yugoslavia made plans to come here for the debate. It will be the first time representatives of such rank have participated in Security Council discussions since U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes spoke in the 1946 discussion of an Iranian appeal against the presence of Soviet troops in Iran's Azerbaijan Province. The Russians left before a decision was made.

In Paris, Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Lloyd George conferred with Premier Mollet and Foreign Minister Pineau on the next British-French move. They declared their solidarity in this crisis.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles said at a news conference he would be here for the debate next week. He ruled out again any idea of shooting a way through the canal.

Wayne Man Dies In Crash
SCRANTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—A Wayne County man was burned to death today in the crash of two large trucks in a dense fog near Clarks Summit, Pa.

The victim was identified as John A. Griemsmann, 26, of Beachlake, Pa.

Police said a gasoline tank on Griemsmann's truck exploded after a collision with the truck operated by O. J. Hiatt of Trenton, N. J. Hiatt suffered minor injuries.

Israeli, Jordan Troops Clash Again

JERUSALEM, Sept. 26 (AP)—Israeli and Jordan soldiers blazed out with new bursts of automatic gunfire in divided Jerusalem tonight.

The city fighting was a brief but noisy aftermath of the bloody 7-hour overnight battle touched off by an Israeli reprisal invasion of Jordan. That battle ended this morning.

U. N. truce observers quickly ordered a cease-fire in the Jerusalem clash tonight. Both sides obeyed immediately. No casualties were reported.

Hint
Jordan authorities have hinted at a massive Arab counter-campaign if the U. N. Security Council fails to stop raids such as the Israeli incursion 2½ miles inside Jordan.

There was intensive consultation in Arab country capitals and at the U. N. Syria's Premier Sabri Assad said in Damascus a general conference of all Arab countries heads of state was being considered.

Jordan acknowledged 31 of Jordan soldiers were slain and reported 90 to 100 Israelis killed in the hand-to-hand fight that raged into the early morning.

Israel announced the overnight attacks as a self-defense measure intended to discourage Jordan attacks, and said its figures were 50 Jordanians killed, 5 Israelis killed, and 9 Israelis wounded.

A later official statement boosted the Israeli death toll to nine, including the five killed in the fighting. One wounded man died later and three other soldiers died in a road accident.

Stevenson To Visit Scranton

HARRISBURG, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Democratic State Committee today announced the itinerary of Adlai Stevenson, the party's presidential candidate, for next Wednesday's campaign tour of Pennsylvania.

Stevenson is scheduled to arrive at Scranton at 8 a. m. and will leave Johnstown for West Virginia at 10 p. m.

Milton Eisenhower's Labors Draw High Praise From Dulles

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, was praised by Secretary of State Dulles today as a constructive worker in U. S. relationships with Latin America.

Dulles was commenting, at his news conference, on statements made at Miami last night by Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Stevenson said the Eisenhower administration had appeased Juan Peron when Peron was dictator of Argentina, and that "A member of the President's personal family assumed special, if informal, responsibility for our relationships with Argentina."

A Stevenson aide said the reference was to Milton Eisenhower, who visited Peron and other Latin American heads of state in 1953 as a representative of President Eisenhower.

Constructive Role
The White House referred reporters who asked about this to Dulles, and Dulles said today he felt he could depart from his self-imposed rule against getting drawn into the campaign political charges. However, in replying to reporters' questions, he never mentioned Stevenson by name.

Dulles said Milton Eisenhower had played a highly constructive role and had never interfered with normal policy matters at the State Department.

He also said Milton's recommendations on increased credit, technical aid and trade formed the basis of U. S. policy toward Latin America. And in all those respects, Dulles said, the U. S. relationship with Latin American countries is at a new high.

The secretary also said that the given Peron nothing, but while Truman was President, the United States supplied more than 100 million dollars to Argentina at a time Peron was in power.

Keating To Join Walter

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—Rep. Kenneth B. Keating, Rochester republican, left Idlewild Airport today for Frankfurt, Germany, where he and Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) will hold meetings on refugee and escape problems.

They will sit as a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee and consider "security and methods of screening applicants" for admittance to the United States under the Refugee Act of 1953.

Adlai Queries Eisenhower's Leadership

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson accused President Eisenhower tonight "of consistent rejection of the positive responsibilities of leadership" throughout his administration.

With former President Truman on hand to introduce him, the Democratic nominee said "many people have wondered how much President Eisenhower has to do with the Eisenhower administration—sometimes the President seemed to wonder himself."

Stevenson flew here from Jacksonville, Fla., where he jabbed at the administration's farm policy. He said he wondered if Eisenhower knew the Republicans were devoting "huge sums" of the taxpayer's money through the soil bank program trying to sway the agricultural vote.

General Attack
The former Illinois governor made his attack more general in the speech he prepared aboard his plane. "The Joe Smith Express," as he made the trip from Florida in the hope of capturing Missouri in the November election.

"There is only one question to be asked about the Eisenhower administration," Stevenson said. "That is: 'Who's in charge here, anyway? Who in this businessman's administration keeps the store?'"

Stevenson also volleyed back Eisenhower's charge—made in a television address at Peoria, Ill., last night—that the Democrats have been playing politics with the soil bank program—a plan for cutting crop surpluses.

State Crime Rate Increases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Following a national trend the crime rate increased substantially in Pennsylvania cities during the first six months of this year compared with a similar period in 1955.

The urban murder rate remained constant at 1.5 for each 100,000 inhabitants, but in almost all other major crime categories the rate increased, according to a report issued today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Northampton Lawman Seeks Close Efforts

(Picture on Page 8)

POCONO MANOR—Sen Joseph Yosko said yesterday that he feels Tock's Island will prove feasible as a site for an Upper Delaware River water control-flood deterrent dam and that it would cost about $100 million.

Yosko made this statement while addressing the 20th annual meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River here at the Inn. Yosko also set down these major points:

That if Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware—the states which benefit from Delaware River water—want to enlist Federal aid in a water resource control program they are going to have to coordinate their efforts and work together for it.

He said that "lobbying" unfortunately is the way in which most legislation is secured. He pointed out that Western States do a heavy degree of lobbying in State legislatures and in Congress and that they therefore get most of the dams built.

Yosko said that he had investigated interest costs on $100 million which might be needed to build the dam. These costs—at three and one-eighth percent per annum—would be about $48 million, he said.

He went on to say that, for this reason, he felt the cost of the dam could best be financed by levying of gasoline or cigarette taxes in the two states involved.

There are three manners in which the dam could be financed, Yosko said. He listed them as: One—an Interstate authority; Two—direct appropriations by New Jersey and Pennsylvania; Three—Federal grant.

Denounced
Yosko emphatically denounced the idea of an "inter-state" authority. He cited, as an example, the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission which, he said, "hire hootchy-kootchy dancers for entertainment" with money taken in from toll-paying travelers in the two States.

The Northampton county Democrat suggested that public relations concerning the Delaware can be bettered by the publication of a regular newsletter sent to State and national legislators. He said, also, that a finance committee should be formed to appeal to certain industries and interested groups for donations to continue the fight for development of the Delaware.

Another speaker on the second day of the Incoed meeting was Sen. Wayne Dumont, New Jersey Republican. Dumont repeated what he called "New Jersey's" opposition to the present plan to share water on a 70-30 percent (with New Jersey getting the latter) basis from a Delaware dam. He said it should be 50-50. The States would share costs in proportion to the amount of water they take from the river.

Dumont also said his State favors Wallpack Bend as a site for the dam. Engineers have pointed out that Tock's Island, if feasible, would provide more water storage space.

Col. Allen F. Clark Jr., in charge of the Philadelphia office of the US Army Engineers, which has been ordered to survey the river and make recommendations for future uses, told the conference that a report won't be available until January, 1959. He said interim reports would be released, however.

'Flossy' Gains New Force

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Tropical storm Flossy, gathering force anew, moved toward the New York-New England coast tonight.

Already the cause of at least 16 deaths, almost a score of persons missing and millions of dollars in property damage, Flossy posed a new threat of heavy rains and possible flood tides.

Warnings
Heading northeast from off the shore of Wilmington, N. C., Flossy picked up strength. Winds of 35 miles an hour, with gusts up to 50 m.p.h., were preceding the storm center.

Storm warnings were displayed from Cape Hatteras, N. C., as far north as Provincetown, Mass., including Long Island Sound and Chesapeake and Delaware bays.

Duff Leads GOP Candidates In Monroe County Rally Today

U. S. SEN. James H. Duff, veteran Republican who is facing a tough battle in his bid for re-election this November, carries his campaign into Democratic Monroe County today.

He will be accompanied by all the Republican candidates for state and district offices.

Arriving at noon from Milford, Sen. Duff and party will go immediately to the Penn-Stroud Hotel for a luncheon scheduled to start at 12:15 p. m. Anyone wishing to attend the luncheon is welcome to do so, County GOP Chairman B. K. Williams said yesterday. Tickets may be purchased at the hotel desk, he added.

Public Invited
The public is also invited to attend the rally which will be held in the ballroom immediately after the luncheon. It will be broadcast over Radio Station WVPO starting at 1:05 p. m.

Williams will preside and brief campaign addresses will be given by all the candidates. In addition to Duff, they are: For Congress, George Berg; representative in the General Assembly, H. L. Cleveland; auditor general, Charles C. Smith; treasurer, Robert F. Kent; Superior Court, G. Harold Watkins; and Supreme Court, Benjamin R. Jones.

The rally will be followed by a tour of the Stroudsburg, including the areas flooded by the high water of Aug. 14-19, 1955. The Duff party will also inspect flood work along Route 90 and other highways enroute to Honesdale, where the state candidates will speak at a rally tonight.

ROUTE OF THE TRANSATLANTIC TELEPHONE CABLE SYSTEM is shown on the map above. It stretches 3,205 miles from Portland, Me., to Oban, Scotland. Various domestic circuits carry the messages to the New York City area, Montreal and London. The 2,250 miles from Clarendville to Oban are spanned by twin repeatered cables. A single repeatered cable extends from Clarendville to Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, a distance of 380 miles. The 575 miles from Sydney Mines to Portland are covered by radio relay. The cable system is operated by the A. T. & T. Long Lines Department, and British and Canadian telephone interests.

Transatlantic System Open To Public

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 — A new transatlantic telephone cable system—the first physical voice link to be established between North America and Europe—was inaugurated yesterday and opened to public service.

Cleo F. Craig, chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., was the first to speak over the $42,000,000 system. He exchanged greetings with Dr. Charles Hill, head of the British Post Office, who spoke from London. Their conversation, carried with the clarity and naturalness of a neighborhood call, highlighted inaugural ceremonies held here and in Canada and Great Britain, Craig said.

Craig also exchanged greetings with George Marler, Canadian Minister of Transport, in Ottawa. Frederick R. Kappel, who last week succeeded Mr. Craig as president of A. T. & T. Co., also participated in the ceremonies.

The cable system, under construction for more than two years, is not only the first of its kind to cross the Atlantic, but the first underwater phone link to span any ocean.

The transatlantic system can carry 36 conversations at the same time. Thus, it is able to handle about three times the traffic now transmitted between this continent and Great Britain by radiotelephone.

Rev. Savage Speaks To MORA Club

REV. NORMAN Savage, pastor of East Stroudsburg Baptist Church, addressed the MORA Club at the YMCA yesterday afternoon.

Taking "Unexpected Surpluses" as his topic, he emphasized the force of life's extras as benefiting man and every age of man. Even in the sphere of grace and forgiveness, man is receiving a surplus; likewise, God's creation, nature's beauty and the overflowing forces of the Universe, said Rev. Savage.

Complimenting the minister, composed of men of retirement age, on their role as "senior citizens," and on the great possibilities for service innate with them, Service in itself reveals and supplies the surpluses that are for man's progress and estate, Rev. Savage said, adding that Heaven is the ultimate of what will be man's and God's surpluses glorified.

Rev. Luther E. Markin, new president, assumed his office after an absence in the Southwest. He gave an extensive report on plans for MORA's fall programs. John R. Wilson, YMCA secretary, spoke briefly. John Pennington was introduced as a member.

Public Should Participate Fully In Program Offered By TB Society

One-third of the people in the United States today are infected with live tubercle bacilli. This fact stands out in the face of the tremendous progress made against tuberculosis in recent years.

For the first time in history, progress against tuberculosis has overshadowed the tragedy of the disease. The death rate has been reduced drastically—95 percent since 1900, bringing it down to 10 per 100,000 population today. Yet—

Tuberculosis is still the giant among infectious-disease killers in this country, killing more people than all other infectious diseases combined. It is killing 45 persons a day, causing one death almost every half hour.

With these facts in mind, new significance is attached to the executive secretary's report at the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society meeting Monday night.

The report dealt with the chest x-ray surveys financed by the society during the Spring and early Summer when 7,623 persons were examined.

Three active cases of tuberculosis were discovered and 104 cases were advised to report for re-examination. Of the latter group, 20 were referred for further study.

Considering the large number surveyed, the total found to have active tuberculosis would appear to be small. But when measured against the tuberculosis death rate for Monroe County in the last three years, the figure would seem to call for a stepped-up vigilance if we are to wipe out the disease altogether.

In the 1953-55 period, 13 residents of this county died from tuberculosis. This averaged out to an annual death rate of 12.3 per 100,000 population, or 2.3 points above the national average.

Monroe's rate was 10th highest among the state's 67 counties but slightly below the state average of 12.4 deaths per 100,000. The nine counties with a worse record all have a much larger population than Monroe. Philadelphia was high with 21.9.

The 13 deaths were broken down as follows: 1953, four; 1954, three; 1955, six. By age groups, two of the 1955 group were over 65, three between 45 and 64, and one between 25 and 44. Four were male and two female.

In one respect, Monroe boasts a much better record than most counties. It is in the number of tuberculosis cases reported. There were seven reported here in 1953, none in 1954 and 10 in 1955, an average annual case rate of 16.1 per 100,000. This compares with a high of 133.7 in Philadelphia and a low of 5.0 in Sullivan.

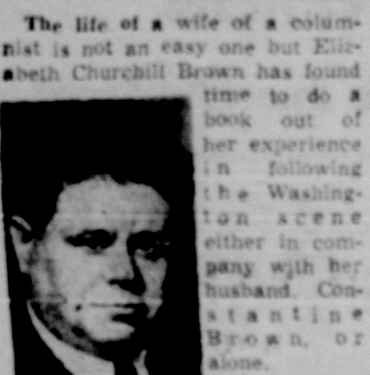

Much work remains to be done if we are to make real progress against the disease. We, as individuals, can help eradicate the dread killer by cooperating fully with the Tuberculosis Society in its year-around campaign based on prevention, detection and treatment.

Since no satisfactory vaccine against tubercle bacilli has yet been discovered, there should be a greater public participation in the society's three-phase program. Remember, the earlier the lesion is found, the shorter the treatment.

Tuberculosis, the killer, is still on the prowl. It can strike anywhere—and will, unless we keep our guard up.

George Sokolsky Says...

Elizabeth Churchill Brown's New Book
Points Up Errors In Policy Toward Japan

The life of a wife of a columnist is not an easy one but Elizabeth Churchill Brown has found time to do a book out of her experience in following the Washington scene either in company with her husband, Constantine Brown, or alone.

The book, "The Enemy at His Back," is a study of available but elusive information, most of which has already been published here and there. Liz Brown brings it all together and proves a point, namely that we have for 20 years or so been governed by men without a sense of history, whose greatest ability seemed to be to cover up their errors—or the errors of their chiefs. In fact, they wrapped them up in such delicious language that they ceased to look like errors.

For instance, the book cites the occasion of the decision to publish a document on the American policy toward Japan, particularly toward the Emperor. There were those in the Administration who wanted the Emperor abolished, which others held would prolong the war indefinitely. So there were numerous conferences to consider the wording of a statement. There was endless talk but no one was quite willing to denounce the document because no one wanted to be responsible for guessing wrong, but General George Mac-shall postponed further discussion by saying the publication would be "premature." The one word did the job which it took all of General Douglas MacArthur's ingenuity later to undo.

However, the document which on May 29, 1945 was declared to be premature was actually issued on July 26 of the same year, which surely is not a great lapse of time. The answer, undoubtedly, was that there was considerable pulling and pushing in the State Department and in the White House and there were all sorts of experts and authorities who have proved, in the long run of history, not to have been experts or authorities about anything, surely not about the Far East and beyond doubt not about Japan and the role of the Emperor in Japanese History. Most of these experts have been forgotten by the American people but they still fill little niches in universities where they teach small phases of great subjects to admiring students.

Mrs. Brown's book establishes beyond doubt that from the available data it is certain that Japan was defeated long before the atom bomb was hurled at Hiroshima and that Japan was suing for peace. It is possible also to reach the conclusion from the data she presents that surely the Pentagon and the State Department and probably the White House were aware of the fact that Japan sought peace and that if the President was not fully informed, he and the American people were betrayed by those whom they trusted. It is a conclusion that, in my opinion, is a conclusion that it is inevitable from the available material.

There is a further point to be made on this subject. Prince Konoze kept a diary and I have been told authoritatively that his diary fully covers the period discussed in this book. I have also been informed that the Konoze Diary is in the United States. Mrs. Brown apparently has not had access to this diary, she not giving it her extensive and carefully compiled bibliography. However, in an appendix there is a considerable quotation of a conversation between Prince Konoze and the Emperor of Japan, which fully upholds the hypothesis that Japan wanted peace before the bomb was thrown at Hiroshima.

Liz Brown has done an excellent job of research and reporting in "The Enemy at His Back." It is a book to which one can refer not only for the needed fact, but also for easily accessible references to the sources, so that each statement, each quotation may speedily be checked. The unusual device is employed of putting the references in the margin close to the statement to which they refer. Senator William Knowland wrote a foreword for the book in which he says: "The Enemy at His Back" will be of value to all individuals anxious for a free world of free men. We must recognize that in dealing with the Kremlin, the road to appeasement is not the road to peace. It is only surrender on the installment plan.

This is the thesis and the book might help those who really are interested in why so many things that look right, go wrong.

Fairly Spoken By MARGARET LATROBE

Fitting Intelligence
And Education Together

A reader asks, "What is the difference between intelligence and education?" This gentleman is too intelligent himself to ask for a straight definition. He simply wants one individual's ideas beyond what can be found in the dictionary.

The difference between intelligence and education is the whole world. For one to mean even a little, the other must be a little present. For one to mean much, the other must be much present. If by intelligence we mean the inherited capacity to learn, then education is the environment to be learned.

Intelligence is like money in the bank; education is the interest that money earns.

Intelligence is like a barrel of flour. Education is the bread one can make from it. The one is like the seed; the other is the catch brought up from its depth. Without the flour, without the seed, there is no bread or fish, and this is what a great churchman meant when he said some people are "educated beyond their intelligence."

Intelligence is like the talents of the parable. Education is the use to which those talents are put. The one is responsibility; the other is application of responsibility. And whether the one be great or small, application is what fills it. The one is magnetic; the other is inescapably drawn toward it.

Without this magnetism, which is curiosity and reason and imagination; without a sound and sturdy receptacle—what can enter the box? What will remain?

Intelligence is a gift controlled by a source higher than ourselves. Education is our exercise of that gift. If we sometimes judge and criticize and mistake the uses others make of their gifts, perhaps it comes from overestimating our own. If we sometimes wallow in self-pity and bitter envy, perhaps it comes from underestimating the gifts we have but do not perceive.

If we observe that there are plenty of "well-educated" fools, plenty of "intelligent" ignoramus, what are we to conclude? Perhaps that we are all very humble creatures, after all, barely aware of what potentials exist for both intelligence and education.

Anyhow, there are two things we could use more of. Or, as the young lad said to his first-grade brother, returned from his first day in school, "Well, you look smarter, but I wonder . . . ?"

DOWN ON THE FARM

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

Juvenile Delinquents Dept: It happened yesterday about 3:30 at 31st Street and Broadway, where the press cars parked waiting for the cops-and-robbers action . . . Right across the street from the scene where acid-throwers blinded Victor Riesel . . .

Four bullies were turning from a "stew stuff" party (all teenagers 17 to almost 20—from the 47th Street and 10th Ave. sector) ganged up on three newspaper photographers "just for the hell of it" . . . The newsmen were treated at St. Clare's Hospital nearby . . . Lennie Morgan, 46, of the N. Y. Journal-American, had the presence of mind to take a picture of his assailant after a terrible beating . . . At the hospital where they were all being X-rayed, Morgan was listed as having four fractured ribs and a "possible fractured skull" . . . His face and left eye were severely slashed. The suspects all wore heavy rings when they were booked . . . When his flash bulb illuminated the scene, the frightened and cowardly punks grabbed the camera and fled.

The alert police of the 16th precinct found it a few minutes later in the 8th Ave. and 50th St. subway kiosk, where the heels had flung it . . . The Journal-American photographer's camera was wrecked, but the "holder" containing the shot of his assailant was intact . . . It will probably become a prize-winning news picture . . . Philip Greitzer of the Daily News and the driver of his press car, Ralph Gonzalez, were also beaten up . . . Gonzalez, when we left the hospital at 6 a.m., was in bad shape, but Greitzer was treated for cuts and dislocated.

It started when Joseph Ware, 19, about 6 ft. 2, allegedly provoked the fight with Gonzalez . . . "I'll give you 25 for a cigarette," Ware said . . . "Sorry, buddy," Gonzalez replied. "I haven't any."

"What do you want a dollar for a cigarette, wiseguy?" Ware reportedly taunted.

Gonzalez had just come out of the corner ham-and-eggery. He had been excused for "lunch."

His partner, Greitzer, and the other press cars, including mine, were on a signal 32 a few blocks away at the time . . . Joe E. Lewis was our passenger . . . We were showing him the police car routine . . . As the press cars returned to 51st and Broadway, Lewis and I followed up this other case at the 16th pct. on W. 47th Street . . . The four juvenile delinquents who enjoyed out-numbering the news paper photographers were very lucky—as was I—because one of them might have been hurt or dead—and I would have been down at the District Attorney's office explaining that it was justifiable.

Radio car patrolmen Wm. Dreyer and Robert Hill (after a hurried description of the suspects) canvassed the Broadway and West Side restaurants and other joints and located three of them . . . They are Richard Nelson, 10, who was scheduled for induction into the U. S. Marines yesterday; Thomas O'Hare, 17, who told me he tried to stop the fight when he saw the word "press" on the cars; Robert Cartaino, 17, who also tried to stop the brawl (his photograph confirms).

Nelson, who told me he hoped I would help get him out of this trouble and into the Marines, alibid: "I was defending myself—after a newspaperman threatened to throw me through a window" . . . A "likely" story . . . Cartaino also told me he was hopeful that the newspapers of New York wouldn't hurt his chances of becoming a Marine and I assured him agonized mother (in the station house) that the on-the-spot newspaper would have a lot to do with proving his case . . . One of the foursome, rattling on Nelson, the bully, told this reporter he likes to "belt out" people . . . The only reason he wants to be a Marine, he once said, was so he could "belt out some DIs" . . . Translation: A DI is a Drill Instructor . . . Nelson (at the police station) said: "Is this going to keep me from becoming a Marine?" . . . I said: "You'll become a Marine over my dead body."

I just talked to Sgt.-Major John R. Thek, Chief of Recruiting for the U. S. Marine Corps in New York and protested the acceptance of Nelson . . . The Sergeant-Major replied: "We already have been informed by the Police Dept. about this and we in the Marine Corps do not want men with the character shown by these two, who so maliciously demonstrated their contempt of law and order."

The No. 1 antagonist, Joseph Ware, the over 6-footer, finally stroled into the 16th precinct, after detectives paid a visit to his mother's home nearby and told her to tell him to come in . . . When I asked Ware where he had been since the fight, he said he was strolling the streets trying to get his head cleared . . . In the station house, handcuffed to chairs, they didn't seem so tough.

I asked the Journal American city desk on the phone to ask every newspaper in New York (and wire service) to cover the story at the 16th precinct (which they all did) to show these bullies how it feels to be outnumbered . . . It is now almost 2 in the afternoon as I dictate this to my Girl Friday, and I am going with the police to see what happens in Adolescent Court . . . I went to the court to represent my injured conferees and to make sure that no politician or anyone else with "influence" would throw any weight around . . . I am tired and fed up with eye-witnessing mental defects (and other teenagers) gang up on cops, one of whom had his shirt ripped off in the 14th pct. recently—and didn't use his gun or night stick as three punks gave him a tossing around . . . "Why didn't you break their heads open?" the cop was asked . . . "Oh, Mr. Winchell," he said, "that would be brutality and I might get demoted!"

I asked one of the high brass of the police dept. why cops didn't use their night sticks more, in self-defense, especially . . . He replied: "Any policeman who doesn't use his night stick is a punk. That's what night sticks are for" . . . We learned that cops do not like to walk into a court with a prisoner's head in bandages . . . Too many magistrates being soft in the heart and the head . . . Magistrate Nicholas P. Deland, however, spoke for many of us when he said policemen should use their night sticks much more . . . The Police Comm'n could use 5,000 more cops, but can't get them.

We had three muggings in ten minutes between 41st Street and 50th Street the other 5 to 6 a.m., but the cops in the 14th and 16th precincts were on the job . . . It would be peachy if Police Commissioner Kennedy would assign at least one cop to the Victor Riesel acid-throwing arena . . . And when a patrolman on foot has to have his dinner—there should be another one to replace him, until he comes out. (End of Grouch).

Pat Candido, President of the Press Photographers' Assn. N. Y., and James Ritchie, President of the N. Y. Reporters' Assn., protested to the court about "these unwarranted attacks" and after the Judge had set the high bail of $25,000 each (for felonious assault and grand larceny), we thanked the Court "for newspapermen everywhere."

Anything Can Happen When
Californians Go To Polls

(Robert S. Allen is on vacation. During his absence, his column today is by Edward Kennedy, assistant editor and publisher, Monterey Peninsula Herald, in California. Mr. Kennedy is a noted former Washington and war correspondent, and is a widely recognized authority on California politics and leaders.)

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Assistant Editor and Publisher,
Monterey Peninsula Herald

Monterey, Calif., Sept. 26 — The head of the restaurant workers and bartenders' union told me the other day that while his people liked Ike, he thought they'd vote Democratic this year.

"But haven't they been well off under Ike?" I asked. "Restaurants and bars have been more crowded this summer than ever."

"That's true," he replied. "On the other hand, you'd be surprised how people try to fumble one another when it comes to paying the check. Two years ago you'd see them fighting to pay it. Today they hold back until the other guy pays it. To our people that means money is getting tight."

In another quarter I heard this: "There's no question that Nixon is unpopular and he's even more disliked in California than in other places. But they were saying the same things about him when he ran for Congress and for the Senate; yet he was elected by big majorities against tough opposition."

"He's the kind of man people talk against but vote for. While he may be a liability to Ike during the campaign, he'll be a big asset on election day."

And in another place: "Ike has a fine record and has been an honest and dignified President, but that doesn't win the non-Republican votes that he needs. What people like is a Harry Truman style give-em-hell campaign and Ike makes a poor showing at that."

"So he's slipping and will until the last few days. Then the voters, especially the women, will ask themselves: 'How could I ever forgive myself for kicking out so fine a man at the end of his career?' Ike's fine record won't win for him, but sentimentality will."

The foregoing expressions are probably as good as most of the explanations available for why people vote as they do in California.

In California, where a candidate may, and usually does, seek the nomination of not only his own party but the "opposition party" as well, party lines mean less than in any other state. With a registered Democratic majority of 782,000, California went for Eisenhower by 700,000 votes in 1952. The state has a Republican governor, a Republican legislature, two Republican U.S. Senators and 19 Republicans among its 30 congressmen.

It all boils down to this: When the voters go to the polls in California, anything can happen.

Any concept of California as a politically screwball state is, however, quite wrong and shows no real knowledge of its electorate.

Californians invariably have good reasons for voting as they do, based on intelligent self-interest, the issues as they see them and their like or dislike of the personalities of the candidates.

It's simply that, without much party control, each voter is his own political philosopher. With politics on such a personal basis, the whole range of the voter's mind and emotions is involved in his decision.

Democracy in California functions perhaps less according to the rules enunciated by Bryce and de Toqueville than in response to factors set forth by Freud and Kraft-Ebing.

Among the most interesting of this year's contests is that between U.S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel (pronounced Keekel), Republican, and State Senator Richard Richards of Los Angeles, Democrat.

Kuchel is 46, Richards 39. Both might be described as veteran boy prodigies.

Kuchel was elected to the State Assembly at 26 and promoted quickly to the State Senate. He was Republican state chairman at 36 and state controller at 36. As an outstanding young member of the Earl Warren organization, he was twice elected controller with the nominations of both parties.

Appointed to the U.S. Senate by Warren late in 1952 to fill the vacancy created by the election of Richard Nixon as Vice President, Kuchel had to run in the next general election, in 1952, for the last two years of the term. He made out well, defeating Rep. Sam Yorty, Democrat, by 200,000 votes.

Kuchel has won a good deal of credit as a hard-working and earnest, if not yet brilliant, senator. He has striven to look after the interests of his state and has his name on a considerable amount of legislation, mostly dealing with alifornia projects or social measures of special interest in the state. He has tended, with some exceptions, to line up with his senior colleague, Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, in Senate voting. This means that he has followed a course a little to the right of that of his former mentor, Earl Warren.

This year Yorty again fought to unseat Kuchel, but the state Democratic organization turned him down in favor of Richards. Yorty entered the primary anyway, charging that the organization's recommendation of Richards was in violation of California election laws.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Thoughts On A Phone Business Switch

American Telephone and Telegraph, largest phone company on earth, has a new president Frederick R. Kappel, and we can't help wondering how it feels to get news you have been picked to head a corporation responsible for 48,000,000 telephone calls.

Every telephone subscriber, however good the service, and regardless of the company, thinks it his privilege to complain about phone service. Taking a minimum of only one squawk a week, this means 250,000,000 squawks per year. The kicks about the impolite hello girls, wrong numbers and the 30 cent overcharge never reach the president, but think of all the others that do.

Or is a protective wall thrown around all phone company presidents so that one doesn't even hear the one about the over-crowded party line, the kids who have fun calling people at random just for excitement, the fellow who wants to know why he can't get a color telephone set and the woman who wants the company to rush down and rescue a cat that has been chased to the top of a pole? No man, however capable could run a business and hear any great proportion of the kicks. It is just possible that the presidency of a phone company is the softest job of all. Phone company heads always look happy, healthy and unworried. We imagine that when a man is chosen president he phones the wife and says "Look, honey! I've been made boss of the whole works! Now I can relax."

We could be wrong. Maybe with all the super-financing, the expansion program, the hassles with utilities commissions and the decisions on stock splits, a phone company top man has so many headaches he would rather listen to complaints.

The new boss of A. T. & T. is a Minnesota small-town boy who made good in the city. He worked his way through college as a waiter and was a drummer in a college dance-orchestra. Mr. Kappel may be the first ex-waiter and dance orchestra man ever to reach heights in the phone business. It's a far cry from "What'll you split for dessert?" to "Shall we split the stock one for five or one far ten?" A little experience with a dance-orchestra is not bad. In fact, we think busy executives in all industries might live longer if they could close the door, tell the secretary to brush off all visitors for an hour or so and then find relaxation with a snare drum, saxophone, or flute. And maybe execute a rock-and-roll.

There's Cash
In Them
There Beards

By Jim Riley

Attention all men with beards! Ronson Corp., which has much of its holdings in East Stroudsburg, Pa., soon to move to Delaware Water Gap, is offering $5,000 per ounce for beards.

Ronson is offering the $5,000 reward for the privilege of shaving the beards of men selected for an electric shaver commercial on a network TV program.

In addition to the heavy per-ounce payment, selectees get an all-expense-paid trip and two-day stay in Hollywood, where the TV program will originate on Thursday, Oct. 4.

The venture results from a nationwide search by a New Jersey firm for men with beards three months old or more.

Other details concerning the contest contain the facts that applicants must be over 21, qualify for selection by mailing Ronson sample strands of beard and a close-up snapshot of full beard. Full details must be forwarded on age and occupation. Selectees will stay at the Beverly Hills Hotel, Hollywood.

The TV program is "Playhouse 90," a one-and-a-half hour weekly network show.

Payment will be made for the beard immediately at the time of shaving.

The idea was founded by Joseph L. Sicari, currently handling public relations for the entire Ronson Corp.

Bangor PSEA To Clarify Teacher Pay

BANGOR — Members of the Teachers-Board Committee of the Bangor Local Area Branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association were instructed at a Tuesday meeting to contact members of the Education Committee of the Bangor Area Joint School Committee to clarify relative factors in teachers salaries. The meeting was conducted by Milard Gleim, president.

A report on the Class Room Teachers' Workshop held last Summer at Penn Hall, Chambersburg was given by Charles Sandwick, delegate. President Gleim and Armon M. Williams were named delegates to the State PSEA convention to be held in Harrisburg on Dec. 27, 28 and 29.

Sandwick was also named delegate to the Class Room Teachers' Conference to be held at Bedford Springs on Oct. 27 and 28. It was announced that Miss Lucy Valerio, president of the PSEA, would be an honored guest at a dinner to be held at Wilson Area Schools on Tuesday, Oct. 1.

It was announced also that the annual conference of the Eastern District, PSEA, would be held in Allentown on Oct. 12. The organization voted to give its support to the planned Business-Education night being planned for the Bangor Area Schools on Oct. 22.

Dinner Plans — Plans were made for a dinner to honor new teachers in the district during the month of October. Miss Gladys Mace, chairlady is in charge of the arrangements.

The following meetings were approved by the membership for the year: Nov. 28, workshop on evaluation of pupil progress; Jan. 22, business meeting; March 20, workshop; April 16, business meeting; and May 14, annual meeting and election of officers.

County Youths Innocent Of Morals Charge; Guilty On Lesser Counts

THREE Monroe County youths yesterday were found not guilty of the statutory rape of a 15-year-old White Haven girl last April.

However, a Monroe County jury convicted the trio of assault with intent to ravish and simple assault and battery.

Defendants in the case were James Butz, Tannersville; Harrison Moyer, Jr., Pocono Lake, and Edward Smith, East Stroudsburg. After the verdict was announced, Judge Fred W. Davis ordered them remanded to the Monroe County Jail to await sentence.

The jury was given additional instructions on two occasions before a final verdict was recorded.

The panel first came into the courtroom and the foreman read that the jury had found the defendants innocent of statutory rape, but guilty of the other two charges.

However, Judge Davis sent the jury back for further deliberations after one member disclosed she didn't fully understand the meaning of assault and battery. Judge Davis explained once more that simple assault involves "the slightest touch" of an individual without his consent.

When the panel again returned to the courtroom—presumably with a verdict based upon the additional information—Judge Davis informed the jury assault with intent to ravish would necessarily involve simple assault.

With that advice, the jury retired once more.

A short time later, the panel entered the courtroom again and the foreman presented the recorded verdict.

"I think the evidence warranted the verdict you brought," the judge said, thanking the panel members for their services.

WAABI To Hold Third Banquet

THIRD ANNUAL banquet of the Women's Association of Allied Beverage Industries will be held tonight at Club Fernwood, Bushkill. The dinner is scheduled for 7 p. m.

Mrs. Rose Smith, executive chairman of the Monroe Chapter of WAABI, said proceeds will be donated to the group's "Operation Needy Aged" project. The chapter is raising funds to build a guest home for aged residents of the county for which there is a waiting list of over 200 persons, Mrs. Smith said.

Reservations for tonight's banquet are expected to total between 100 and 125, Mrs. Smith said. Anyone interested in contributing to the cause may attend, she explained.

There will be an entertainment program but no speeches, the chairman reported.

Thieves Steal $100 From Mount Pocono Bargain Center

MOUNT POCONO — Thieves made off with about $100 in cash after breaking into the Pocono Bargain Center here over the weekend, Borough Police Chief William Post disclosed last night.

Post also reported that the intruders tried unsuccessfully to break into the Atlantic & Pacific Supermarket, located in the same building.

The thieves got into the bargain center sometime between 7:30 p.m., Saturday and 1:45 p.m. Sunday by breaking open a wooden door in the rear of the building, Post reported. The break was discovered by the manager, Nathan Seidman of Scranton.

Except for the cash, nothing else was apparently taken, although a large quantity of stock had been moved into the new bargain center earlier, the police chief said.

Post further disclosed that the intruders also attempted to jimmy open two doors at the A&P market. However, they were unable to do so.

The investigation is continuing.

Profession Explained To FTA Members

IF A TEACHER wants to be a success he must possess an inborn enthusiasm for his profession, a Pennsylvania State Education Association official told local Future Teachers last night.

Speaking before Thaddeus Stephens, FTA, Eugene P. Bertin, executive secretary of PSEA, noted that "teaching is an indispensable adjunct to American society and free education is the most important function of that society."

Bertin emphasized growing student enrollments and the ever-increasing scope of modern education in wide fields of subject matter as signposts of the vast importance education has achieved in this country.

He urged teachers to help adjust the public's attitude to education by accenting the multiple services performed in schools today. Among them: the services of the coach, athletic programs, special education classes for slow or retarded children, counseling and guidance for the maladjusted or disturbed child, specialists and advisers in many fields.

"Ceiling Unlimited"

Bertin said that the "ceiling is unlimited" in the teaching profession. But to reach fulfillment in his job the teacher must understand all phases of personality and must try to "know" the whole child because he will have "unlimited influence" over the pupil, he said.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Francis McGarry, dean of instruction at the college. In other business, the chapter installed the following new members of FTA council:

John Saunders, Waverly, president; Winifred Sullivan, Darby; Fred Ziminsky, White Haven; Ann Granahan, Duryea; Joyce Fuhrman, Hanover; Carol Perkins, Stroudsburg; Thomas Leshkoe, Harleigh; Walter Bjorn, Damascus (who is also State FTA president). Each new member spoke briefly to the group.

Saunders also announced the selection of the following committee chairmen for the year:

Attendance — Al Mendlovitz, Scranton; house and properties — John Martin, Wilmington, Del.; publications — Nancy May, East Stroudsburg; convention — Lester Gibbs, Croydon; parliamentary procedure demonstrations — Tom

Blackspot Disease Attacks All Varieties Of Roses, Leaving Feathery Margin As Mark

ROSE TROUBLES: What causes the leaves on roses to fall prematurely? That's a question that's come up many times this fall. Without doubt the most common cause for premature defoliation of roses is blackspot disease, probably the worst disease on this popular flower. Practically all varieties are affected although some are more resistant. The disease starts as circular black spots, with feathery margins on the upper surfaces of the leaves. The fungus winters over in old leaves on the ground, or in cane lesions. Rains splash the spores from the ground to lower leaves and from one leaf to the other.

If the foliage is wet for six hours or more, you get infection. Leaves affected turn yellow and drop. Leaves of tolerant varieties may turn yellow but still remain on the bush. Black spot appears harmless enough, but it can weaken your plants and make them susceptible to winter injury, the main cause for "blackened" rose canes in early Spring.

Control: It's pretty late to apply dust or sprays effectively now since some rose bushes are completely defoliated. Minor cases can be sprayed with sulfur or copper, plus ferbam or captan. Douse your rose bushes heavily. This treatment should have been started in early spring, and continued weekly. Fresh applications should be applied immediately after each rain, although many gardeners prefer to do the job before a rain. If you spray weekly I can't see where it makes any difference—before or after a rain.

Avoid overhead sprinkling of roses since you want the leaves to dry before night. Do not work in roses while leaves are wet, and also it's a good idea to pick off the first few spotted leaves before spores are splashed to other bushes.

As a final control measure, apply a mulch of buckwheat hulls, sawdust, ground corn cobs, and other materials in spring, after first feeding. This forms a mechanical barrier between the spores in old leaves on ground and new leaves on the plant. Rake and turn all old leaves this fall. And next year, start spraying or dusting early in spring. Black spot is one disease you can't lick easily once it becomes established.

Question Box

By George Abraham

K. E. of Stroudsburg: "Recently I read in a magazine where you could spray evergreens, grass, hedges, and shrubs with a chemical which would dwarf the plants and eliminate pruning or mowing. Please tell us what this is, as we want to spray our evergreens in front of our home. They grow tall and are too bushy."

There's no material which will dwarf grass, evergreens or shrubs. Maleic hydrazide has received considerable publicity for its supposed dwarfing effect on grass and shrubs, but the truth is, there's no substitute for the lawn mower or the pruning shears. Ohio tests on evergreens and shrubs sprayed with maleic hydrazide were variable in the dwarfing effect. Your evergreens still need pruning, and you can do the job by hand in a few minutes.

A. A. of Canadensis: "We have an old lawn where the grass is rather spotty. It gets full sun and we want to patch up the area, but still not mow it. Would you advise us to sow grass on the bare spots or plow up the whole lawn and start all over again?"

If a third of your lawn has good grass in it, I wouldn't advise plowing it. Chances are it needs a good feeding and some lime. A lawn should get lime every 4 years, about 30 lbs. per 1,000 sq. ft. And it's a good idea to feed a lawn every year, or at least every other year. Use liquid plant food, applied with a sprinkling can, sprayer or house-feeder, or you can use dry fertilizer, such as 5-10-5 at the rate of 40 lbs. per 1,000 sq. ft. One half pound of an all purpose plant food such as Rapid-Gro, for example, will cover about 1,000 sq. ft. To fertilize an old lawn, rake it thoroughly with a steel tooth rake to get out dead grass, leaves, etc., and then scratch up the bald spots. Feed, add some compost, peat, or rotted manure and then sow the seed. Roll with light roller to keep seed from blowing. Rolling also hastens germination by a few days. If your soil is extremely sandy or full of heavy clay, one bale of peatmoss spread over 600 sq. ft. of area and raked into it along with fertilizer will help a lot in getting a thick green turf.

James C. Quaresimo, 62, Expires In General Hospital

JAMES C. QUARESIMO, 62 of 54 Broad St., Stroudsburg, died at 10:30 a.m. yesterday in General Hospital after an illness of two months.

He had been co-owner and partner in the Devivo Quaresimo and Sons clothing business on Main St. in Stroudsburg the past 36 years.

Son of the late Anthony and Marie Quaresimo he came from Italy to New York before World War One. During that war he enlisted in the U. S. Army and served with American forces until the end of hostilities.

Partnership

Mr. Quaresimo came to Stroudsburg in 1919 and in 1920 formed a partnership with John DeVivo.

He was a member of Stroudsburg Eagles, the Elks Club, the American Legion, Italian-American Club and held a social membership in the CLU Club. He was a member of the Roman Catholic faith.

Surviving are his wife, Hortense M.; three sons, John C. and Anthony F. Quaresimo, Stroudsburg and Arthur S., at home; three brothers, Thomas and Joseph, both of Newark, N.J. and Angelo of Italy.

Requiem mass will be conducted Saturday at 9:30 a.m. in St. Luke's Church, Stroudsburg. Rosary services will be held Friday at 8 p.m. at Dunkelberger and Westbrook funeral home where friends may

Contract Suit Settled Out Of Court

PAUL CRAIGIE, of Louisville, Ky., one of the plaintiffs in a breach of contract suit which named Charles and Clair P. A. Gossinger as defendants, reported yesterday that an out-of-court settlement had been reached in the case Monday.

The settlement was for $10,000. Craigie added, the other plaintiff in the case is Craigie's wife, Virginia.

The Craiges formerly managed High Point Inn, owned by the Gossingers. The plaintiffs were released from their positions April 1, 1955, after five months of a two-year contract, Craigie said. They claimed breach of contract and filed a civil action to recover wages for the balance of the contract.

The Craiges were represented by James T. Kitson, and the defendants by Williams and Williams.

They pay their respects after 7 p.m. Interment will be made in Gates of Heaven section, Laurelwood cemetery.

Teachers Open Convention Tomorrow

SEVENTH annual convention of classroom teachers from Northeastern Pennsylvania will open Friday at noon at the Penn Stroud Hotel.

First item on the agenda will be lunch. Serving begins at noon. Mrs. Anna K. Meixell, Stroudsburg and Delbert Davis, East Stroudsburg, are co-chairmen for the luncheon and the meeting.

Max Cooley, Sayre, district president will be in charge of the meeting. Main luncheon speaker will be Lewis Adler, attorney for the Pennsylvania State Education Association in Harrisburg.

A business session will be held at 2 p.m. in the Penn Stroud. Friday the house of delegates dinner will begin at 6 p.m. in that hotel. The house meeting begins at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of State Teachers College in East Stroudsburg.

Music

Music for most of the business sessions will be provided by Dawn Pechatka, Scotrun. Included in the order of business for the delegates meetings are:

Adoption of rules and reading of minutes for previous meeting in Scranton; report of the credentials committee; nomination for delegates to the National Education Association convention in 1957; election of a secretary; reports from various other committees.

On Saturday the general meeting opens in the college auditorium at 9:30 a.m. with T. Stuart Williams, Luzerne, presiding. Platform guests will include: Dr. LeRoy J. Koshler, president of the college; Carl T. Secor, for Monroe County schools; Earl F. Groner, Stroudsburg; A. Clair Moser, PSEA associate executive secretary; Robert C. Frailey, Monroe County school board president; Floyd Kellogg, county PTA president.

Honorary pallbearers were Russell Jones and Frank B. Michaels. Active pallbearers were Moses Serfass, Donald Heller, Charles Van Auken, Kenneth Weber, Joseph Tutz and Wade Arnet.

Carl Kauffeld

Snake Curator To Speak

THE sneakiest snake in the world is actually a very nice guy when you get to know him.

So says Carl Kauffeld, curator of the famous reptile collection at New York's Staten Island Zoo.

Onstage at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium this morning Kauffeld will set about trying to prove his point. He will have a group of his "friends" with him, advance information said.

The public is invited to attend this morning's meeting—a regular part of the college convocation series for the year.

Audience members are urged not to hiss at the performers. And, preferably, vice versa.

Six People Selected For Campaign

SIX PERSONS who will serve as the 1956-57 "campaign committee" for the Monroe County Community Chest Drive have been chosen.

Those who will serve on the committee, according to Chest president Martin S. Baldwin, are: Paul Dellaria, Jesse R. S. Flory, J. Albert Groner, Elwood Huffman, Mrs. R. Frederick Jones and Walter Wyckoff.

Committee members will work in close coordination with Baldwin and Elmer West, Chest executive secretary in the establishment of policy during the campaign.

Division Leaders. Working under them will be a series of division leaders. Their jobs will be to supervise activities in all the specialized fields which provide revenue for Chest functions.

Solicitations have already started in the current Chest drive. During the past month resort division collections totaled $2,479.59. Miss West said yesterday. That total included money turned in from 86 resort hotels, inns, camps and other establishments in the county.

First highlight of the 1956-57 campaign will be the annual "kick-off" dinner. It will be staged on Oct. 22 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Phases of drive solicitation in the meantime will move right ahead, Miss West said. Industrial contracts will probably begin during the first week in October.

Six Speakers To Attend Conference

SIX SPEAKERS will take part in the public relations conference scheduled to be held Oct. 6 in the Penn-Stroud Hotel by Group 3, Pennsylvania Bankers Association.

John E. Watt, trust officer, Stroudsburg Security Trust Co., is chairman of the committee planning the conference. He said a capacity attendance is assured as all 300 tickets for the conference have already been sold.

Welcome Address. John J. McCarthy, president, Calanqua National Bank, and Group 3 chairman, will deliver the welcome address when the conference opens at 10 a.m.

Other speakers — Ray Hayes, public relations officer, General Motors, "The U in the Public Relations;" Hugh Hoffman, vice president, Opinion Research Corp., "Evaluating Public Relations Efforts;" and Don A. Brennan, Community Relations Bureau manager, Curtis Publishing Co., "Community Relations."

The morning session will close at noon and will be followed by luncheon at 1 p.m. There will be two talks at the afternoon session, the first at 2 p.m. by Harold LeDuc, public relations vice president, Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania, on "The Employee's Role in Public Relations" and one by John LaCorda, author, world traveler, public relations expert, on "Telling the Banks' Story." The conference will close at 3:30 p.m.

LEEDS, England, Sept. 26 (AP)—The entry in the Leeds Infirmary record book said: "Paul Sheard; C215 O." That's the routine formula for treatment of drunkenness. Nothing unusual about it — except Paul is only 6. His mother found him flat out with a bottle of shubard wine in his hand.

St. John's Church Plans Work Project

AT A WELL-attended meeting of the Brotherhood of St. John's Lutheran Church on Tuesday, a work project for the men of the church was planned.

It was decided that work shall begin on Saturday, Oct. 6, in painting the garage at the 10th St. property. All men of the church are invited to assist in this project.

It was also decided that the meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 23, take the form of a Reformation meeting, when that great historical event will be duly marked. The officers were instructed to make plans for such a meeting.

The officers were instructed to plan for the observance of the 50th anniversary of the St. John's Lutheran Brotherhood shortly after Easter 1957. Indications are that a dinner meeting will mark the event to which members of the congregation shall be invited. It is possible that this event will be held in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the congregation and the 30th anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. P. N. Wholen, D.D.

Ushers. President Edward Hardcastle appointed the following ushers to serve during the month of October: Mornings, Arthur Kitzman, Clarence S. Kitchen, Howard DeNike and Edwin Buck; Nights, Lefty Shutter, Elton Wagner, Edward Yost and Walter Weber.

Harold Blair was named secretary to fill the unexpired term of Joseph K. Scott, who has accepted a position with the City of Detroit Park Commission.

The topic was presented by Charles A. Keiper followed by a discussion. During the social hour refreshments were served by Richard Shook, Edgar Sorfass and Charles A. Keiper.

Deadline Nears For Tax Refund

INTERNAL REVENUE Service yesterday announced that there are only three more days left for farmers to file claims for the refund of the Federal excise tax on gasoline used for farming purposes during the first six months of 1956.

In order to obtain refund of the tax for this period, claims must be filed not later than Oct. 1. This refund is authorized by Public Law 466 to relieve farmers from excise taxes in the case of gasoline and special fuels used on the farm for farming purposes.

Claims must be made on Form 2210, a brief, easily-prepared refund form.

Lions Hear History Of Supreme Court

STROUDSBURG Lions, at the regular meeting Tuesday night, returned to permanent club headquarters, the Penn-Stroud Hotel, after having spent three months meeting at resorts in the area.

Club president Harold L. Miller was in the chair and announced the return of the organization to stated programs.

Joseph McCluskey was guest speaker and spoke on the Supreme Court of the United States.

He said that this year marks the 167th anniversary of the great court. Its necessity at first was found in the need of a tribunal to try all cases of law and equity arising under the constitution. It became the tribunal of final jurisdiction and final authority over all courts.

The speaker referred to early division of opinion as to the nature of the young republic, many feeling that the United States simply constituted a development of the original Federation. Their opponents held that the country was something entirely new and complete.

The great Supreme Court Justice John Marshall held the latter view. Marshall and his successor, Justice Taney, held the post of chief justice from the birth of the court to 1864. Most other chief justices have served about 10 years and there have only been 14 in all.

Celebrated Cases
The speaker told of some celebrated cases as for instance the controversy as to whether a citizen could sue the state which resulted in the passage of the 11th constitutional amendment. Under its terms a citizen cannot sue a state unless the state is willing.

Miller thanked McCluskey for his address and also thanked past presidents Ben Williams and Ed Driehs for their parts in making the meeting of the preceding week so successful.

Secretary James Somers read a letter from the Williamsport club favoring active work in behalf of the Sharon-Stroudsburg highway.

The club voted to address state highway officials in favor of the same.

Notice was given of the coming 10th anniversary banquet and Ladies Night of the Portland Lions Club to be held at the Pavilion opposite Harkers Hollow club house on Thursday, Oct. 4 at 7 p.m.

Miller urged representation in the part of the club.

AWARD—American Legion Auxiliary this week presented an award to radio station WVPO and its staff in recognition of its contribution to education, entertainment and inspiration of this community and in appreciation of courtesies and cooperation extended during the annual Poppy Day program. Those taking part in the presentation, left to right, are Gertrude Blitz, president of the Legion Auxiliary; Eleanor Bausien, Poppy chairman; Joe Webster, chief announcer, and Chester Miller, station manager.

Pen Argyl American Legion Installs Slate Of Officers; Band To Obtain New Uniforms

PEN ARGYL — Charles Nelson, Legion Post No. 502 met this week at the Legion Home to install new officers.

Installed were: Joseph Saccon, commander; Charles Morgan, senior vice-commander; Garfield Williams, Jr., Junior vice-commander; Richard Klito, chaplain; Franklin May, historian; sergeant-at-arms, Floyd LaBar and Fred Male; Burdell Hontz, adjutant, and Walter Davey, service officer. The men were installed by past commander Walter Davey.

In other business a donation was made to the Salvation Army in connection with this current fund drive.

A number of the band reported that a donation of $200 has been received from the ladies auxiliary toward the new band uniforms which Charles Morgan reported would be received this week.

Morgan also reported that the band would be participating in parades both in Nazareth and Bath in the near future. The next Legion Band rehearsal will be held in the Legion building tonight. Band members are urged to bring their old uniforms to exchange for new ones.

Outgoing commander Carlton Strunk reported that due to the per capita tax the legion dues will be $3.25 effective Dec. 1. However, those paying before will only be charged three dollars.

Thomas Ceraul, warden at the Easton prison and member of the Legion, was also present to receive new members.

Saccon closed with a prayer.

Adventists To Collect Church Funds

MEMBERS OF the Stroudsburg Seventh-day Adventist church will contribute funds Saturday to help provide a new hospital in Port of Spain, Trinidad.

Mrs. Charles Locke, Sabbath school superintendent, in announcing the special offering, pointed out that Trinidad is the "most disease-ridden island in the Caribbean. It was known for some time," she said, "as the 'White Man's Grave.'"

The superintendent said that seven Adventist missionaries have met their deaths there as a result of typhoid, malaria, yellow fever and other diseases which abound.

Crowded
Government hospitals are crowded, and the clinic which the church now operates, Mrs. Locke said, has been twice enlarged because of the heavy influx of patients, but it cannot accommodate cases requiring hospitalization.

The Port-of-Spain hospital, when completed, will be the sixth such mission hospital operated by the denomination in Inter-America. These are part of the Adventists' world medical program, which comprises 235 medical institutions.

Federated Clubwomen Here From 11 Counties For Day Of Work And Inspiration

High aspirations and practical club matters mingled at the Fall conference of the 11-county Northeastern District, Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs at the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday with 286 clubwomen, nine county presidents and six state officers present.

With the Monroe County Federation as hosts, the women heard reports from the presidents of the county federation, held six workshops with discussions on community and club affairs, and listened to state officers, with an inspirational speech by Salom Rizk, author of "Syrian Yankee" as the climax of their day.

Mrs. Woodrow R. Matten, state president, in her talk "Signposts of Federation" stressed the state theme of "Harmony, vision and purpose" in the new administrative departments; and projects. Under international affairs, she explained the Meigs for Millions and Magazines for Friendship project. Emphasis in public affairs is on citizenship and savings bonds. A new department is that of Religions of the World, through which the clubs hope to understand not only the customs of different countries but also the basis for their beliefs.

The state project is continued help for Women's Medical College. Mrs. Lynn Hunter, third vice president and Junior representative, challenged the members to "Aim at the Stars," pointing to the libraries, clinics and other results of pioneer clubwomen looking beyond their ironing boards. She also explained the Tomorrow's Citizens program which won for her Altoona Club the achievement award last year.

"America is More than a Country" was the theme of the talk by Salom Rizk whose experiences in war-torn Syria "between the hammer and the anvil" of rampant hate and nationalism, had convinced him that the only hope for the world was in an "American revolution in the hearts of the hungry, oppressed and betrayed of the whole world."

"This American revolution based on the conviction of the divine right of the individual, the sovereignty and responsibility of the people to choose, criticize and change their government, must be extended to the whole world," he said.

His talk followed the luncheon, at which the table talk was largely on the morning workshop sessions. Local people played a large part in many of the workshops. Mrs. William Hannas served as chairman of the workshop on

Miss Aila Joro, of Helsinki, Finland, who has been a guest of the Stroudsburg Women's Club this summer, provided the international relations study group with many of its highlights. Miss Lillian Stark and Mrs. Edward Williams also contributed to the workshop.

Mrs. James Cummings, chairman of the public affairs workshop, presented the key figures who had worked with her in the "Get Out the Vote" campaign of several years ago: Mrs. Frank Maguire, and Leonard Randolph of the Daily Record; and for Civil Defense: Mrs. Kathryn Miller and Mrs. Mary Henning.

Mrs. William Fisher of the Saylorsburg Progressive Women's Club, was soloist at the afternoon meeting. Mrs. Claude Leister served as convention co-ordinator for the five presidents of the county clubs. Many county clubwomen served as hostesses, registrars, pages and committee chairmen.

Just Between Us

—by Bobby Westbrook

You can't believe how much racket 286 women at a luncheon can make. By contrast the office with ringing telephones, ticking typewriters and teletypes and the rumble of the presses seemed quiet by comparison.

However the noise at the Federated Women's Club luncheon yesterday was merely symptomatic of a successful meeting. When women have been stimulated with new ideas, titivated by admiring and being admired in their new clothes, and filled with good food—they talk—with the volume a pretty good indication of the degree of satisfaction.

The local clubwomen in charge of the affair needed no further proof of its success. However, a lot of them aren't going to be able to rest on their laurels, since right away they'll be getting busy for their part in the State Music Club Federation meeting here next Monday.

I was busy going around recommending that as an antidote to too many women and too much high-level thinking, they all might enjoy that French borrow movie last night. Whether or not they thank me this morning depends on how many nightmares they had last night.

Though a lot of women were preparing to have nightmares quite without benefit of movies what with the "escaped convict"

Alexander of First Christian Church, Oklahoma City, will be the speaker at the banquet Tuesday night. The annual report of the state president, Mrs. Cecil Sharpe of Scranton will be given at Monday morning's session.

Strand Twins Share Party On Birthdays

Bartonsville — The sixteenth birthdays of Linda and Lois Strand, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Strand, of Bartonsville, was celebrated with a gala party at their home on Friday night, September 21. The rumpus room, scene of the celebration, was decorated in the seasonal motif with corn stalks, pumpkins, balloons, streamers and colored lights.

The evening was spent round and square dancing with music furnished by the juke box. The twins were the recipients of numerous gifts and cards. Refreshments of grilled hot dogs, and hamburgers, ice cream, birthday cake and beverages were served. The entire group later went to the Youth Center Dance at the Pocono Township fire house, Tannersville. The entire tenth grade of Pocono High School, of which Lois and Linda are members, were invited to the party but some were unable to attend.

Those present were Eva Arque, Jayne Starnper, Jane Law, Joan Sprague, Nellie Ruchelman, Nancy Canfield, Nancy Shafer, Kathryn Walters, Carol Derrich, Carol Hilliard, Charlie Youngkens, Douglas Bauman, Allan Strand, Barry Strand, Romaine Kaufman, Marty Sharron, Jimmy Sherron, Paul Plattenburg, David Hughes Jr., Harrison Steward, Charles Bush, Wesley Rusik, Jack Hallock, William Scharf, Walter Rohrbach, Larry Starnper, Paul Frailey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sharron, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vicon and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Strand. Nancy Williams was unable to attend but sent gifts.

Music Club Federation To Meet In Stroudsburg Monday

The Stroudsburg Music Study Club will play host to the annual conference of the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs of the Philadelphia region to be held in Stroudsburg on Monday, October 1. Sessions will be held in the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Eighth St.

Members of the local Music Club of which Mrs. John McDowell is president are working to make the big session a success.

Registration is scheduled for 9:30 a.m., and the morning session, opening at 10:15 will feature reports from club presidents, federated clubs and organizations.

Organist To Speak

Dr. Harold W. Gilbert, widely known as a choral director and organist, will be the morning speaker. He is choirmaster and organist at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Philadelphia; headmaster of St. Peter's Choir School and Musical Director of the Mendocchino Club, Philadelphia, choir director of Holy Trinity Church, West Chester and of Trinity Church, Moorestown, N. J.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. by the Women's Guild of Zion Church. The new state president, Mrs. Lewis E. Young, of Pittsburgh, will be the luncheon speaker and David Golon, prominent American composer, will be the special guest.

The afternoon program, beginning at 2:15 will feature members of the Music Study Club of the Stroudsburg in their celebrated sextette. Under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Bender Jr., the sextette will present folk tunes; "Hagan's Fair Daughter" by Treherne; "Pine Tree by the Wood" by Fitchberg, and "The Gaiety Pipe" by Fletcher. Members of the sextette include Alberta Yutz, Lila Mae Heller, Susan Warner, Frances Everitt, Ruth Cyphers and Marjorie Barnes with Mrs. Bender as accompanist.

Other local women to present numbers include Gene Schiller and Mrs. Lucy Quig in organ and piano numbers. Included: "Grave" and "Allegro" from Sonata Pathétique by Beethoven, and "Theme from Finlandia" by Sibelius. Anton Rubinstein's "Serenade Song" will be presented by Mrs. Ralph Bender, organist; Mrs. Meritt Rutt, pianist; Mrs. Henry Bauman, violinist; and Mrs. John McConnell, contralto soloist.

Representatives from the Pennsylvania State Board, club members, organizations, choirs and student groups are expected for the session.

Luncheon reservations are in charge of Mrs. Gerald F. Hinton, 754 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, and should be made immediately by local members who have not already done so.

the program. Composed of a dozen teenagers, 12 to 14 years of age, the group is conducted by Howard Deek with Thomas Souders as concertmaster. Margaret Ross, violinist, and winner of the 1956 Youth Audition of the Ready Symphony Orchestra, will play a solo number, while Barry Bergman, pianist, also a 1956 Youth Audition Winner from Reading Symphony Orchestra will present a group of solo numbers.

Senior Clubs to be represented at the meeting in addition to the Stroudsburg Club include the Allen-town Musical Club, Drexel Hill Music Club, Lancaster Musical Art Society, Lebanon Harmonia Music Club, Norristown Octane Club, Philadelphia Matinee Musical, Philadelphia Music Club, Philadelphia Music Teachers Forum, Shamokin Cecilia Club, Stroudsburg Music Club as well as other student clubs, organizations and choirs.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

The column seems to be taking on a homodie flavor these days, thanks to the tang in the autumn air that puts an itch in the toes . . . and thanks too to those pictures discussed a few days ago, and the Hudson River Cruise of Monday. I'm ashamed to admit it, but in all the five years I've worked at Wyckoff's, it wasn't until this Fall that I boarded the Peter Styvesant for a day at West Point and Hyde Park. I guess it just takes me a bit longer to catch on than it does most people . . . but when I learn, I really learn!

Looking back to Monday, I have a colorful remembrance of memories as colorful as the threads of a tapestry. I spent the preceding night rolling and tossing . . . listening intently to the thunder and downpour of rain just beyond the pane. What a trip we were going to have, I fretted, visualizing some 1400 umbrellas dripping onto the decks, and 1400 potential users of Uncle John's cough syrup huddled together in chilled, fretful groups. But at 6 a.m. came a miraculous change in the weather . . . and by the time we were "happy on the way," as Mr. Wyckoff says, there was just a trace of gold in the sky. "We'll have a beautiful day," the seasoned Wyckoff traveler beamed. "Typical Wyckoff excursion weather—wait and see."

And we did. When Marion Widmer and I had taken our places on the top deck, to be wind-tossed by the playful autumn breezes on the Hudson, the sun was emphatically with us. It was delightful . . . with the choppy waters reminding us that it might be cold down below but it was next thing to heaven above water. I didn't have a camera . . . just a mind hopeful of absorbing everything in sight, from the first trace of masonry and gold on the trees edging the shore, to the forlorn "moth-ball fleets" of destroyers that have been retired to rust and weather, since playing a gallant part in World War II. There was the thrill of looking up into the overhanging intricacy of steel and ingenuity, represented by some of our nation's greatest bridges, and of returning by night to see those same networks of steel touched by lights that turned them into a delicate filigree worthy of fine jewelry. There were moments too when we stepped far back into history . . . when, through the words of the Peter Styvesant hostess, we were able to visualize the stealth, hear the whispers, and know the sweat and fears of Benedict Arnold on that traitorous night long ago, when he visited an isolated, overgrown Hudson River peninsula to betray the secrets of West Point to the British enemy. It is ironic that just down the river from this landmark, we saw another sorry sight . . . the large brick multi-buildings of an enclosed settlement where thousands of men pay the penalty of self-betrayal. Sing Sing. Quietly elated against the glory of the surrounding hills, a group of prisoners walked slowly downhill from lunch to resume their activities in the rock quarry, or perhaps in the exercise yard.

Buses were waiting at the West Point dock, and away we sped, several hundred of us, to visit the Franklin Delano Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park, and the adjacent library housing mementos of his tradition-breaking career. We saw the rather austere room in which he was born . . . the red basin-tile softly draped in white which cradled him . . . and the severely plain white marble slab under which he was placed in death. In the moments between, we shared the glory of his career in the public eye, from the first gold medals representing his services to individual groups . . . to the large, well-worn desk and chair in which he presided from the White House over the affairs of the nation. Then, in memorable climax to the day, we returned to West Point to see hundreds of gray and white clad cadets, pride of America, in their final salute of the day to our nation's flag.

It was a day in which the majesty of God's hills and valleys, rivers and waterfalls, mingled with the genius of men's minds and the immeasurable power of their hands . . . a day balancing spirit and industry in a soul-stirring display of creation and creativeness. No wonder John Newport's little daughter turned to him at the evening's close and said, "We are going again next year, aren't we, Daddy?" She can say that again . . . for me . . . for hundreds of others . . . and, we hope for you too, if you've never made this trip you'll never forget!

Clan Honors Kresges On Anniversary

Snydersville — Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Kresge were surprised on Saturday night, September 8, when they arrived at the home of their son, Alfred Kresge, to find their children and their families assembled to help them celebrate their 49th wedding anniversary which fell on the 10th.

A double surprise came with the appearance of their daughter, Mrs. Mildred Shellenberger and her family of South Bend, Ind., who had arrived earlier in the day and had stayed hidden during the first surprise.

The group adjourned to the former Snydersville schoolhouse for the party. The school had been trimmed with streamers and colored balloons and an anniversary cake decorated in pink and white. For entertainment there was music and picture taking.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Kresge, those present included Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kresge and children, Ann and Irene, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kresge and children, Lowell, Linda, Joyce and Katrina, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kresge and children, Ronald, George, James, David and Joey, Dr. and Mrs. John Shellenberger and children, Jane Ann and William, of Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kresge, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peechaska and children, Bobby and Susan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pfaffinger and children, Rick and Helen, Mrs. Sallie Harp and grandchildren, Sallie and Mary and John Feltig.

Also present were Lois Shellenberger, Peggy Biggs, Elmer Kresge Jr., Mary Zemcheck, Clark Millard, a cousin of Lowell Kresge's from York.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Feltig called later to congratulate the Kresges.

Gifts were opened, the cake was cut and served with other refreshments. Dr. and Mrs. Shellenberger and their children returned to Indiana on Sunday morning.

Brownies Out Overnight At Acker Farm

An overnight experience at Sky-land Lake on Acker's Acres, completed the year's program of Brownie Troop 1. This holiday planned in the troop program last October, was planned in detail in May and will be evaluated at the next troop meeting.

Debbie Shinn and Susan Kunkle, Sue Haney and Ruth Anne Zettlemoyer, and Dale Vaughn and Leslie McCluskey were shoppers for the trip, with Mrs. Norman Vaughn and Mrs. Helen Dippre advisors.

Snacks around the campfire by the lake and "Jack's alive"—pre-arranged preparations for the outdoor sleeping arrangements.

A hike to the top of the Kittatinny Range of the Blue Mountains led to the cave and exploration around it. A short side trip along the Appalachian Trail gave all the beautiful view available from the spot. Stones were collected which will begin rock collections, and wild flowers and leaves were identified. After rest time, a visit to a nearby home to see and play with the new puppy and shetland pony was of interest to the Brownies.

Mrs. Louis Merola, nurse, and Kathy and Alan were present at the lakeside supper of "hot dogs and walking salad". A scouts oven, with Debbie Shinn, Beverly Shinn, Sue Haney, Susan Kunkle, Leslie McCluskey and Dale Vaughn, expressing inspirational thoughts—led to the sailing of wishboats on the lake. A quiet trek around the lake afforded all Girl Scouts the view of the tiny boats, each carrying its lighted candle and owners name, sailing across the lake. Linda Bell, Patsy Flory, Sarah Cyphers, Sarah Alice Wyckoff, Charlotte Wolbert, Dawn Zahorik, Carole Gehris, Doreen Weber and Marian Sabinsky were other Brownies who took part in the activity. Mrs. Forrest Haney and Mrs. Ruth Zettlemoyer, leaders of a new Intermediate Troop, and Mrs. Roger D. Acker were other adults present, who helped with the program. Mrs. Claude Cyphers, William Wyckoff, and Mrs. Payke Kunkle arranged the transportation.

Methodist Class Meets

Ever-Welcome Class of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Martha Starnes, Eighth St., recently with all officers present. Mrs. Ellen Thomas, teacher, led the opening devotions.

The class voted to collect birthday donations for benefits. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Starnes and Mrs. Hinton to Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Flossie Stiff, Mrs. Hazel Fenner, Mrs. Jennie Miller, Mrs. Ruth Warnick, Mrs. Edna Imbt, Mrs. Ida Strunk and Mrs. Edith Wagner.

Sharron Fabel 15 Years Old

Sharron Fabel celebrated her 15th birthday on Friday night with a supper party. After supper the girls went to the movies.

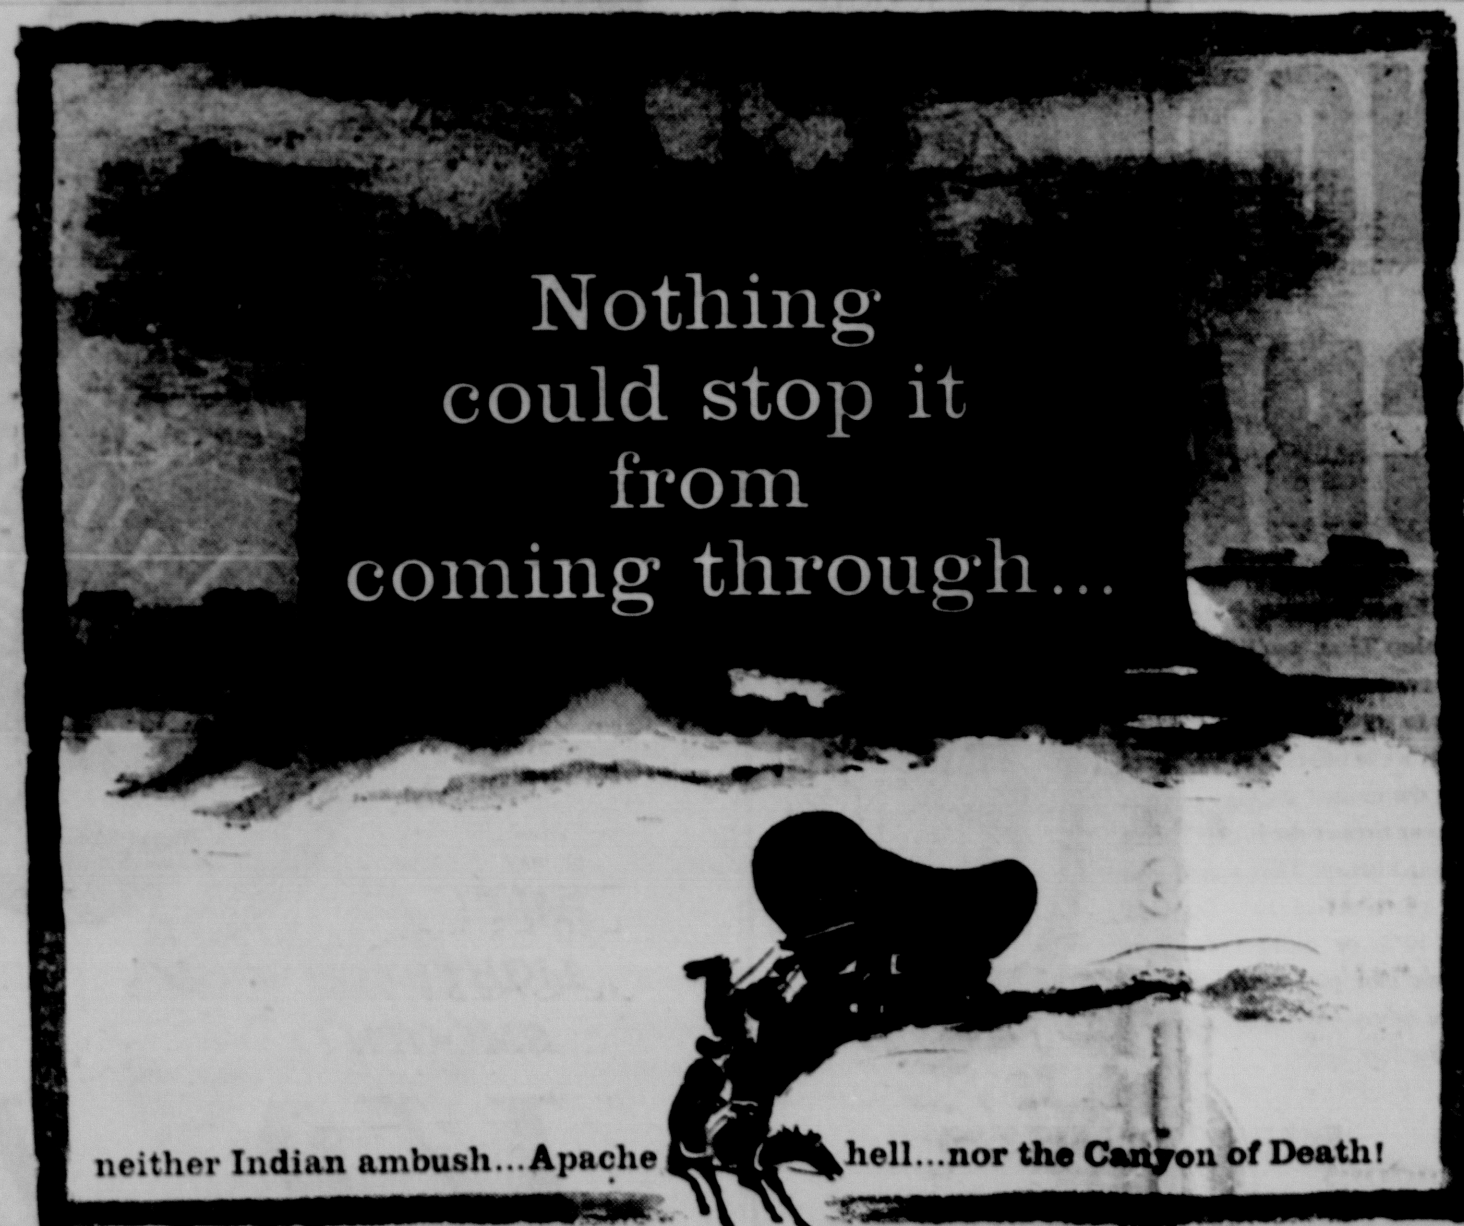

Her guests included Betty Lou Sebring, Shirley LeBar, Junetta Hay, Barbara Phillips, Arlene Evans, Jeanette Fish, Bernetta Barick.

Stroudsburg High To Feature Two-Platoon Backfield

Whitehead Moves For Added Punch

STROUDSBURG High football coach John Whitehead plans to have a two-platoon backfield ready when the Mountaineers seek their third straight victory against Palmyerton High at Gordon Giffels Field tomorrow night.

Whitehead, who went along with one unit in the locals two early victories, plans to throw at the Blue Bombers a group composed of Dick Everitt, quarterback, Noel Campbell, and John Schoonover, halfback, and Earl Truitt, fullback, whenever the occasion arises for new punch.

The regular Mountaineer backfield of quarterback Ron (No) Stopp, halfbacks Ron (Super) Phillips and Dick Cramsey and fullback Bill Bolich however, will start the fray.

Stroudsburg went through a sock 'em, knock 'em and drag 'em out scrimmage session Tuesday and came out of the session in top-flight physical condition for the Palmyerton game.

Bombers Unbeaten

The Mountaineers, who are leading the Lehigh Valley League with a 2-0 won and loss mark, will be out to land Palmyerton its first loss of the young season.

Palmyerton, which will field one of its biggest teams in years, is starting to round into first-class shape. Coaches who have seen the Blue Bombers in action this year rate the eleven one of the better teams in the LV.

The Whiteheadmen will taper off today with light signal drills.

Inner Defense

Stroudsburg's inner defense of Tackles Doug Shook and Jim Wallace, Guards Don (Doe) Stopp and Dick Rieger or Larry Besecker and Center Larry Buzzard are expected to do the bulk of the vociferous work for Whitehead's team Friday. Shook and Buzzard, two of the most aggressive linemen to wear Stroudsburg colors in years, are the key men in the Mountaineer defensive alignment. In the Emma's game, Buzzard was the trouble maker all night for the Green Hornets, while Shook was practically unstoppable in the Lehighton and Emmaus winning efforts.

Booster Night

The Stroudsburg-Palmyerton clash will have an added attraction when the Varsity "S" Association of Stroudsburg observes Booster Night at the contest.

Present plans call for a near capacity turnout of the "S" membership at the skirmish.

Babe Keeps Fight Alive

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 26 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias, famed woman athlete, has not given up in her fight against cancer, John Seely Hospital said today.

Pius High To Open Football Grind Saturday

ROSETO—Pope Pius X High School will open its football campaign on Saturday when the charges of Coach Joe Villiano tangle with Phillipsburg Parochial High under the lights at Phillipsburg's Maloney Field. The kickoff is slated for 8 p.m.

Villiano, pleased with a recent scrimmage session against Belvidere High, is hopeful of opening the campaign with a victory. Pope Pius High has lost only three men from last year's squad by graduation.

Lost by graduation were Armando DeFranco, halfback; Don Guido, tackle and Sam Janette, end. Six seniors are represented on the squad this year, which will still give the Roseto school a strong organization to begin its campaign next year. Hopes are

Phillies Throw Dark Blanket Over Flag Hopes Of Dodgers

BROOKLYN, Sept. 26 (AP)—Robbie Roberts threw a dark blanket over Brooklyn's pennant hopes today by pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-3 victory that dumped the desperate Dodgers a full game behind the league-leading Milwaukee Braves.

The defeat, witnessed by 7,847 stunned spectators in cold, wind-swept Ebbets Field, cast a pall over the Dodgers, who had pinned their hopes for a first-place tie on the shoulders of their 26-game winning ace, Don Newcombe.

Big Newk, however, working with only two days of rest following his five-hour, rain-interrupted pitching chore in Pittsburgh Sunday, was not quite up to it. He had to be excused at the end of five innings, trailing 4-2, after having been bashed for five of Philadelphia's 10 hits.

Although Newcombe obviously showed the effects of his strenuous marathon job in Pittsburgh, he might have fared better were it not for Sandy Amoros' glaring miff of Elmer Valo's routine fly to left in the second inning. The Phils took advantage of this unexpected aid by jumping on Newcombe for three runs, two of them unearned, to overcome a 1-0 deficit. The Dodgers never regained to play, the Dodgers now find themselves behind the Braves in the important "Lost" column for the first time in nearly two weeks.

Here is the pennant picture: eehett-gia maWmli riensyot 1/4 Milwaukee, with three games to play, has a 91-60 mark for a .603 percentage. Brooklyn, also with three to play, has a 90-61 record for .596 and trails by one game. The Cincinnati Reds, 89-63 and .586, are 2 1/2 games behind with two games to play.

Haney Maintains Braves Still Have Tough Task To Cop Flag

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26 (AP)—Manager Fred Haney of Milwaukee, still keeping his fingers crossed despite the one-game margin of his front-running Braves, said today he's not going to become over-confident "because you can't back into a pennant."

Haney conceded the Braves are happy over Brooklyn's 7-3 loss to Philadelphia today — a defeat that means the Braves can win the National League flag by sweeping a three-game series with St. Louis regardless of how the Dodgers fare in their three remaining games.

"But I'm no more confident now than I was before," said the Milwaukee field boss, whose club does not play again until Friday night.

Tough Task

"We've still got to win those three games from the Cards. You can't back into a pennant."

Haney's concentration on the spine-tingling pennant chase kept him from giving his full attention to scouting reports he received on the New York Yankees, his World Series foe if the Braves win the flag.

"I'm not going to worry too much about them until we get through these three games," Haney said. The Braves end the regular season with contests here Friday, Saturday and Sunday against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Braves' manager, whose players took the day off after an 8:45 a.m. CDT, arrival that interrupted their sleep, said morale of his team is high for the decisive games.

"They all think they can win," he said. "But regardless of what they (the Dodgers) do, we have to win the rest of them. It's tough all the way now."

The fat lay now on the champion Yankees of the American League came from Billy Southworth and Bill Maughn, Braves scouts, and

Lehigh Valley Team Wins

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Lehigh County Club team of Mrs. Hugh F. Carroll, Allentown, and Mrs. Russell E. Freed, Pottstown, entered the semi-final round of the Huntington Valley County Club invitation best ball golf tournament today.

They defeated Mrs. John Brubel 2nd, Philadelphia, and Betty Abernethy, Pittsburgh, 1 up on the 19th green.

Mrs. J. Albert Hayes, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Mark Porter, Philadelphia champion and former U. S. champion, eliminated Mrs. Lynn Creason, Harrisburg, and Mrs. John Dyson, Pennsylvania state champion from Hazleton, 4 and 3. The Creason-Dyson team played the opposition from Hazleton, 4 and 3. The Creason-Dyson team played the opposition even until the 11th hole. The Philadelphiaans won that hole, and the 12th, 14th and 15th holes. Each side was out in 37, equal to women's par.

Paul Waner, roving hitting coach of the Milwaukee organization,

No Outline

Haney wouldn't outline his pitching plans for the three-game series here except to say the veteran Warren Spahn, who won his 20th game yesterday against Cincinnati, will start at least one of the games.

Fullbacks — Anthony Renaldo, Nick DelGrosso.

The Pius X band under the direction of Louis Angelini, will drill at the Parochial game before game time and during the half. A "pep rally" will be held at Church Hall at 7 p.m. tomorrow, followed by a parade down Garibaldi Avenue.

The 1956 schedule:

Sept. 29, P'burg Parochial, away, 8 p.m.; Oct. 6, Washington High Reserves, home, 2 p.m.; Oct. 13, Belvidere High Reserves, home, 4 p.m.; Oct. 21, Lansdale Catholic Varsity, home, 2 p.m.; Oct. 29, Allentown Central Catholic Reserves, Bangor Park Field, 8 p.m.; Nov. 6, Washington High Reserves, away, 4 p.m.; a game pending with Belvidere varsity.

11th-hour bid to achieve 20 victories for his seventh consecutive season, throttled the Dodgers with five hits, only one through the last six innings, to register his 19th triumph.

The Phillies' ace righthander, who had dropped four straight decisions to the Dodgers after two early season victories against them, fanned 10 in his best strikeout performance of the season, and walked only one. He turned Jackie Robinson back on strikes three times and stopped the big Brooklyn hitters cold with the exception of Duke Snider.

Snider, the National League's home run leader, smashed two home runs and a double to increase his homer output to 41. The pair of homers also gave Roberts the unenviable distinction of throwing 43 home run balls to top his own record of 41 set last year.

Del Ennis, with a home run and two singles; Roy Smalley with a two-run double, and Willie Jones, with a single that scored two more, paced the Phils' attack on Newcombe, Don Bessent and Clem Labine.

Newcombe, who began the game with a victory string of eight in a row and 17 of 18 since July 4, showed little right from the start. Richie Ashburn opened with a single, to erase any thoughts that Newcombe might duplicate Sal Maglies' no-hit performance against the Phils last night. A fine catch by Carl Furillo of Marv Blaylock's liner, followed by an equally splendid throw that doubled Ashburn at first, helped Newcombe escape the first inning without being scored upon.

There was no such break for Big Don in the second after Snider had put the Brooks in front with a towering smash that bounced off the right-center field wall for an inside-the-park home run.

Bessent was on the mound in the seventh when the Phillies clinched the victory, their ninth in 22 meetings with the Dodgers.

Brown, Farmer To Lead Syracuse Squad

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Dynamic Jimmy Brown and un-sung Rudy Farmer were named co-captains today to lead the Syracuse football team against the favored Pittsburgh Panthers on Saturday.

Brown, All-America candidate, ground out 154 yards and scored two touchdowns as Syracuse upset Maryland, 26-12, last week.

Farmer, a guard, was one of the stoutest on defense; the key to the Orange victory.

Work Hard

Coach Ben Schwarzwalder worked his boys hard on defense today in a controlled scrimmage as word came from Pittsburgh that the Panthers were worried about Syracuse's defensive style.

With all the emphasis on stopping the other team and controlling the ball, the experts were looking for a low-scoring "game of the week" at Pittsburgh. Pitt beat Syracuse here last year, 22-12, and is rated a 3-6 point favorite on Saturday.

Indians Dump Kansas City

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26 (AP)—Vic Wertz hit a single and four consecutive doubles and Herb Score won his 20th game as the Cleveland Indians clinched a tie for second place with an 8-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics tonight.

Score, a 23-year-old southpaw who has lost only nine games, fanned 12 to run his league-leading total to 263. He became the Indians' third 20-game winner and fifth in the league. Bob Lemon and Early Wynn have won 20 for Cleveland, Chicago's Billy Pierce and Detroit's Frank Lary are the others.

The Record

Wertz, whose four doubles tied a major league record held by 26 others, collected five of the Indians' eight hits off loser Art Ditmar and three other Kansas City pitchers.

He singled in the first, and doubled in the third, fourth, fifth and seventh. He drove in the Indians' last four runs.

Jackson Gains Nod Over Baker

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26 (AP)—Shuffling Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson swarmed at over big Bob Baker in the final rounds with his windmill attack to gain a split decision tonight in a gruelling nationally televised 12-round heavyweight outdoor fight at Forbes Field.

Jackson, a 5-8 underdog, racked up his 28th victory in 34 fights and his 2nd over Baker in 7 months. Jackson also won a split decision over the 29-year-old Pittsburgher in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 3.

Baker weighed 213 1/2; Jackson 195.

Referee Ernie Sesto scored 12-7-1 for Baker, Judge Al Grayber saw it 6-4-2 for Jackson and Judge George Lupinacci had it 8-4 for Jackson. The AP card had it 6-5-1 for Jackson.

In Line

Hurricane's triumph put the 25-year-old New Yorker in line for a shot at the winner of the agreed-upon but still unsigned heavyweight title bout between light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Floyd Patterson.

Both fighters started very fast with Baker getting the edge in the early rounds. But Hurricane's whirlwind attack wore down the heavier Baker, and Jackson had Baker reeling in the final round.

Jackson, ranked No. 3, confused Baker, fifth-ranking heavyweight, with his bobbing and dancing tactics. The Hurricane pressed the attack throughout, concentrating chiefly with double hooks and jabs.

In the third round Baker caught Jackson with a steaming left hook and started him bleeding from the nose. But Jackson's seconds quickly stopped the flow during the intermission.

Jackson opened up in the fourth and hurt Baker with a series of lefts. He continued the flurry in the sixth, keeping atop Baker who stood in mid-ring waiting for Jackson to come to him.

In the seventh Jackson threw eight straight rights at Baker without a return but Baker, punching hard, finally got going and finished the stanza strongly.

There were no knockdowns and very few clinches in the scorching battle.

Jubilant in his dressing room, Jackson shouted: "Now I want a fight with Moore."

Jackson didn't refer to the slated Moore-Patterson bout.

Baker, disconsolate over his second loss to the bouncing Hurricane said:

"I thought I won. I thought it was closer than that. I didn't bother to follow up some of the times I had him stunned."

Restraint

When it was over, there was restrained talk about the Braves' improved position in the pennant chase. Not much excitement, though. The Braves have been up and down so much these last few weeks most fans have learned it's easier on the blood pressure to take things as they come.

Monroe County To Roll Today

MONROE County Bowling League will resume play today at Harmon's Recreation, East Stroudsburg, starting at 9 p.m.

The schedule:

Alleys one and two—Gen Lunch vs. Al Besecker's Diner.

Alleys three and four—Johnnie's Inn vs. Courtland Restaurant.

Braves Fans Remain Calm On Surface

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 26 (AP)—Milwaukee Braves fans may have felt like dancing in the streets as their heroes moved a full game ahead of Brooklyn in the National League flag race today, but, if so, they resisted the impulse.

The general attitude seemed to be: "Why get excited now? We've still got three games to play in St. Louis."

Radios blared in restaurants, bars, stores, offices and factories during the lunch hour — and afterward, too — as fans listened to a broadcast of a telegraphic play-by-play account of Philadelphia's 7-3 victory over the Dodgers. There was no telecast of the game available here.

Restraint

When it was over, there was restrained talk about the Braves' improved position in the pennant chase. Not much excitement, though. The Braves have been up and down so much these last few weeks most fans have learned it's easier on the blood pressure to take things as they come.

Sports Trail --

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—We went up to the Polo Grounds hoping to catch the Pittsburgh Pirates at feeding time. We had heard Bobby Bragan stuffed them with tiger meat, raw, before letting them out of their cages to play baseball.

It seemed logical enough. No team ever played with more sheer fury and determination than did the Bucs in their recent series with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Pittsburgh. You would have thought they were the team battling for the pennant. What was the terrific incentive that made them so tigerish?

"They were playing for the gambler," Bragan said casually. "Huh?" we blurted.

"The gambler," he repeated, giving the stub of a cigar a three-quarter turn in his mouth.

"When I first came to the club as manager I kept hearing references to 'playing for the gambler.' I didn't know what they were talking about.

"Then I discovered that Fred Haney, who managed the team last year, used to give the players a couple of cases of beer every time they won a doubleheader. When they asked him where it came from he kidded them, 'A gambler sent it,' he told them.

Carries On

"This year I carried on with the idea, but with only 10 more games to play I told them 'the gambler' would provide the beer after every game they won.

"The other day Dale Long was going down into the dugout and looked over toward the Dodger bench. 'Funny,' he said, 'they're playing for $10,000 and we're playing for the gambler.'"

We had the nagging idea there must be something besides the promise of free beer to make the Bucs play against the pennant contenders with such verve.

"Well," Bragan said reflectively, "I haven't given them any pep talks or anything like that. About 10 days ago, I told them it would be nice if we could finish in sixth place.

"I suppose pride has a lot to do with it, too. They feel pretty important when they can knock off the Dodgers or Braves, and they're out to show they can do it."

We also wondered out loud how he rated Bob Friend, his pitcher who was throwing bullets toward the Dodger batters the other night. Bragan didn't hesitate.

"I rate him right next to Don Newcombe in our league," he said positively. "And the only reason I rate Newcombe ahead of him is the fewer number of bases on balls he has allowed. Friend is a great competitor. He's a regular tiger on the bench when he's in a tight game, pacing back and forth, back and forth."

Could the Sal Maglie incident have had anything to do with the spirit the Bucs showed in the Dodger series at Pittsburgh? Maglie, it is recalled, knocked down Roberto Clemente, the first man to face him in the game. Some thought it was an intent to intimidate the Pirate batters, and just served to rile them.

Nothing

"That had nothing to do with it," Bragan said. "We know that's the way Maglie pitches. Clemente had been hot against Milwaukee, so it was only natural he should be the target. We expected it, so the fellows weren't sore.

"One other thing that might have steamed them up, though. Johnny Logan of the Braves was quoted as saying Milwaukee would have to win all its games because the Pirates couldn't be expected to take more than two of their seven games with the Dodgers."

P.S.—If Ford Frick is listening, Bragan is the 'gambler' who furnishes the beer. And he's quite a gambler, at that.

Soccer Team Uninjured In Bus Rollover

HIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Sept. 26 (AP)—Thirty-nine members of a soccer team and their cheering section today crawled to safety through the broken front window of a chartered bus after it skidded off the N.J. Turnpike and upset in a shallow ditch.

Eighteen of those on the bus, transporting members of the Gaelic Assn. of Brooklyn from a game in Philadelphia to New York, were taken to St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, in four ambulances.

Two were detained and were reported in fair condition 14 hours after the mishap near here. They were John Maye, 19, of Brooklyn and Mrs. Kathleen Morrissey, 31, of Astoria, N.Y.

State police said the passengers evacuated the bus, edging their way through shattered glass of side windows, without panic. It was raining heavily at the time.

Driver William Russell Miller, 29, of New York City was quoted as telling police of Campus Bus Co. vehicle would not respond to its controls. But the troopers charged him with careless driving and told him to appear Oct. 1 before Cranbury Magistrate Ronald Montellous.

Ithaca To Throw Huge Line Against ESSTC

Center Tips Beam At 300 Pounds

ITHACA — Ithaca College's untested Bombers will open their football season at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Percy Field against a veteran East Stroudsburg State Teachers College eleven.

The invading Warriors, with 10 lettermen in their starting lineup, pose a threat to the Bombers and their new coach, Art Orloske. The Warriors smothered Millersville Teachers 33-6 in their debut last Saturday. It's practically the same team that defeated Ithaca 19-13 here last year.

Orloske and his backfield assistant, Hal Seidenberg, former Cornell fullback, have sent their charges against the Cornell jayvees and Mansfield Teachers in practice scrimmages.

The Ithacans have three sophomores in their backfield, and a veteran and heavy line. Coach Orloske has been spending considerable time in building reserve strength. Carlo Vieni, 206-pound, six-foot end from Australia, looms as the only non-letterman in the starting lineup. He is a sophomore.

Giant

With 300-pound Sophomore Bob Marella of Rochester holding down the center berth, the Ithacans have a line averaging 215 pounds per man. Orloske plans to use principally a ground attack, but the team demonstrated in its practice tilt with Mansfield that it has aerial power.

The probable Ithaca lineup: Ray McFarlane of Brooklyn and Vieni, ends; Ralph Salem of Geneva and Co-Capt. John Finster of Westerly, R. I. tackles; Don Winter and Mel Cohen, both from the Bronx, guards; Marella, center; Perry Noun of Rochester, quarterback; Brian Wade, Massena, left half; LeRoy Prettyman, Elmira, right half; and Tom LaPlaca, West Rutland, Vt., fullback.

Baseball Meeting

ANALOMINK—Analomink baseball team will hold a special meeting today at 8 p.m. at the home of Clair Metzgar. All members are asked to be present.

Foytack Yields Only Three Hits As Tigers Clip Chisox

DETROIT, Sept. 26 (AP)—Righthander Paul Foytack yielded only three hits today and the Detroit Tigers won their final home game of the season, defeating the Chicago White Sox 4-1.

Foytack allowed only one hit — Larry Doby's 23rd home run in the eighth inning—over the last seven innings. It was Foytack's 15th victory against 13 defeats.

Bosox Close Home Season With Victory

BOSTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Ted Williams and Mickey Vernon, the Red Sox' elder statesmen, drove in two runs apiece today in support of Frank Sullivan's six-hit pitching as Boston closed out its home season with an 8-4 victory over Washington.

Washington's biggest moment was one the Senators and Jim Lemon, in particular, won't brag about. Lemon was called out on strikes with the bases loaded in the seventh inning for a major league record of 135.

The previous season's high for a player was 134 by Vince DiMaggio of the old Boston Braves which has stood since 1938.

Williams, still flirting with the American League batting title, collected a double and a triple in four official trips to the plate. He now needs nine more at bats in his remaining three games in New York to reach the required minimum of 400.

Williams also drew a walk which forced in a run. His batting average climbed one point to .350.

Williams' triple drove in one of Boston's two tallies in the fifth but it was his double in the first that got the home forcea winging.

Washington had hopped on Sullivan for two runs in the top of the first with the help of two errors.

Boston came up with four in the last half of the inning to go ahead permanently. Billy Klaus singled and went to third on Williams' double to left. Mickey Vernon beat out a hit but an error on the throw brought home two runs.

Jim Piersall's sacrifice fly and Ted Lepcio's single ran the count to 4-2.

L. C. Morgan, Meridian, Miss., lightweight, won 10 of his first 17 bouts by knockouts.

Baltimore Rookie Blanks Yanks, 1-0

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26 (AP)—Charles Beamon, 21-year-old righthander imported by Baltimore from Vancouver, made a resounding major league mound debut here today, blanking the Yankees on four hits as the Orioles won their 1956 home finale from New York, 1-0.

A third-inning wild pitch by Whitey Ford, following singles by Tito Francona and Bob Nieman, accounted for the lone run of the contest, denying the Yankees' ace left-hander his 20th victory of the year. Ford's record is now 19-6.

Purchase Beamon, who posted a 13-6 record this season for last-place Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League and was purchased by the Orioles through a working agreement, struck out nine and walked seven.

An audience of 7,000 cash customers and 548 additional Ladies' Day guests gave the sturdy Negro from Oakland, Calif., a big ovation as he retired Enos Slaughter on a hoist to center fielder Dick Williams for a shutout.

MECO Earns State's Top Safety Record

EMPLOYEES OF Metropolitan Edison Co., who for the second consecutive year compiled the best safety record among Pennsylvania's major electric utilities were honored for their accomplishment Tuesday at the 49th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Electric Association at the Penn Sheraton Hotel in Pittsburgh.

The local utility received first place awards in each of three separate safety contests held during the past year. Included were a first place plaque for having the lowest accident frequency rate among Group One companies (those averaging more than 2,500,000 man-hours annually); a certificate of merit for improving its own safety record, over the company's average for the past three years, by the highest percentage; and a certificate of merit for having the lowest number of lost-time shock and burn accidents.

The local company also won all three top awards last year, becoming the first company in the 26-year history of the competition to achieve that distinction. By earning the same honors in the recently-completed annual contest, MECO sets another precedent in the PEA accident prevention activity.

Kenneth G. Cregar, Reading, system safety director for the local utility, received the awards on behalf of MECO employees from Orville E. Flora, New Castle, president of PEA.

Frequency Rate
In winning, MECO employees compiled a frequency rate of 2.272 lost-time accidents per million man-hours worked. Runner-up in the competition was Pennsylvania Electric Co., Johnstown, with a frequency rate of 3.08, and third was Duquesne Light Co., Pittsburgh, with a rate of 4.415.

The average frequency rate for all Pennsylvania companies in the contest was 4.943, considerably better than the 7.62 rate reported by the National Safety Council for electric utilities throughout the nation in 1955.

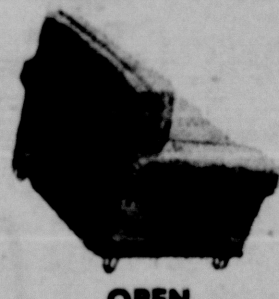

"Safety is a part of everyone's job at MECO," said O. Titus, company president, at the meeting. "The company supplies the finest protective equipment and establishes safe working practices through a well-planned accident prevention program, but it is the employees' own desire to work safely that has made this excellent record possible. Company people and their families suffer most when accidents occur, and I am most happy for them that there were so few accidents during the past year."

Presentation of the safety awards took place before more than 800 representatives of Pennsylvania's 24 independent electric companies. The theme of this year's event is "Setting Our Sights on the Future."

big as all outdoors!

No matter what the size of the house, modern home builders have given it new dimensions. They have opened up the living areas to embrace the outdoors, to create a new feeling of space and light.

Such sweeping design changes have not been without major heating and cooling problems in all climates. The solution is basic—modern homes of open design can be fully enjoyed only with storm enclosures that are equally modern. And these enclosures must match the ever-rising standards of the home-building industry in year-round comfort, convenience, durability and economy.

Eagle-Picher's complete line of aluminum storm and screen enclosures surpass the most exacting specifications. They offer permanent convenience, strength without bulk, beauty that accents good architecture. And above all, Eagle-Picher integrity is built into every window, door, porch enclosure and jalousie.

Firm Fails To Pay Overtime Rate

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, through Solicitor of Labor Stuart Rothman, asked the U. S. Court yesterday for an order restraining Mode Manufacturing Corporation and Irving J. Butow, Wind Gap, Pa., from future violations of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

William Hargadine, Jr., of Philadelphia, Regional Director of the Wage and Hour Division, U. S. Labor Department, said an investigation disclosed information that employees of the firm were not being paid time and a half for FRIENDS and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCanna of New York City, who spend their summer vacations at their bungalow on Oak St., are expressing much hope that Mr. McCanna will soon be able to leave the hospital in the city, where he has been a patient for some weeks.

Mrs. Richard Bondra and sons, William and Richard, who spent the summer with her father, Frank Howard, has returned to Philadelphia to join her husband. The Bondra family have moved into a newly purchased home in Southampton.

over time, as required by Federal law.

He estimates that back wages due the workers amount to about $2,840, for their work in the manufacture of blouses.

Their former home, which they had built, was devastated by the August, 1955, flood and, since it was a bungalow, the Bondra's suffered the loss of almost all their possessions even to all their clothing.

More than 40 Methodist Church folk attended the covered dish supper and reception to their pastor and his bride, Rev. and Mrs. Philip Hanni, last Saturday night. In addition to the hearty supper and felicitations expressed to the young couple, guests presented Mrs. Hanni with a bouquet of roses; her husband, with a gift; and both with a shower of individual gifts to supplement their household possessions. Mr. and Mrs. Hanni were married August 26, and both are studying at Drew University.

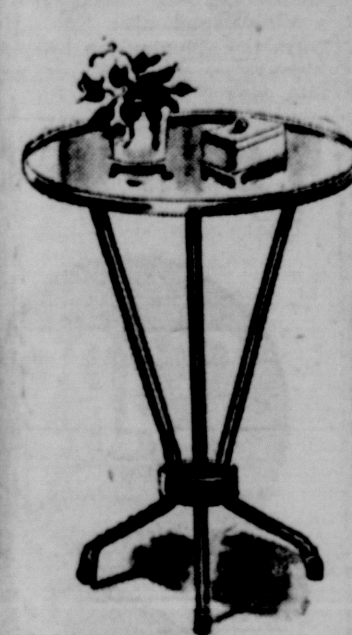

Pen Argyl Votes Against Parking Meters

PEN ARGYL — At a special meeting of the Pen Argyl Town Council held Monday night in the Municipal Building, it was decided by a five to four vote not to install parking meters in Pen Argyl. The deciding ballot cast by William Hockin, veteran president of the Town Council.

Also discussed briefly were the proposed increase in water rates by the Water Co.

THE YOUNG LADY IS TURNING on her table lamp by a casual touch of the hand. She can turn it off the same way. In the base of the lamp there is a new type of electronic switch which opens or closes if touched at any point on the base. The electrical industry is now developing similar switches to be installed in other electrical appliances and household equipment.

New Control Trend Underway For Lighting In Modern Home

THE DAYS of the electric light switch and other button-type electrical control devices found in the home are numbered. A new trend is under way to do away with this long-standing symbol of America's constant effort to live better electrically.

In the forefront of this trend are two recent developments. One is a lamp that can be turned on or off by a mere touch of a hand. The other is a dial in place of the traditional wall switch that can adjust the intensity of light in the room to any desired degree—from full brilliancy to complete "off."

The touch-control lamp has a specially designed electronic switch control built into its base. The lamp can be turned on or off just by touching the base with the hand. These lamps do not require any additional current, they are shock-proof, static-proof and are unaffected by temperature changes. Most important, they are quite safe, exceeding 25 times the safety requirements of the Underwriters' Laboratories.

Dial Your Light

The advantages of being able to dial any desired degree of light in a room are obvious. Not only can light of specific intensity flatter and enhance one's complexion, but very often the lighting at lower intensities can dramatize draperies, special wall pieces, and add substantially to the decor of a room.

These special light-dials can be installed by an electrician quickly and easily, without any fuss or tearing down of walls. The heart of the dial system is a variable transformer. By turning the dial this variable transformer cuts down the amount of electricity reaching the light-bulbs, thus causing them to dim. Thus the same light source can serve to give bright, strong light for work or reading, or the soft, subdued light for relaxation without the need to change bulbs. The dial system can be hooked up to control both built-in and portable lamps in the same room.

Roof Shingle Styles Set By Color, Pattern

ROOFS are given more serious thought by homeowners and home builders today than ever before. A roof always has had to keep a house dry and remain tight as long as possible. Nowadays color, texture and pattern have entered the picture.

Architects and decorators have come to realize that a roof, being the largest single area on a house, can dictate the exterior colors for the house. Furthermore this matter of color has a functional value in insulation. Especially since air conditioning has become so popular, the ability of summer has become important.

Designers say that light, bright colors on a roof make a house seem taller than it is. So they recommend these colors for one-story houses.

Engineers say that a white roof is the coolest in summer. But they also have found that a black roof can be the warmest in winter. Reroofing gives any owner of a gabled house a chance to change and improve the color styling of his whole house. Asphalt shingles, which are now the most popular roofing material for houses, can be had in such a wide range of colors that the homeowner can satisfy any color preference.

Granules Provide Color

The ceramic granules which coat this type of roofing give both color and texture to the shingles. They are firmly imbedded in the base material so that even if some may wear off, the color and texture remains for the life of the roof.

So the five points to consider, if you want to put a new roof on your house, are: (1) Color and texture, (2) Roof pattern, (3) Weight of the roofing material, (4) Shingling over the old roof

Need More Living Space? Fix Up Attached Garage

OWNERS OF SMALL homes with attached garages are catching on to one of the neatest tricks yet devised to gain more living space at a minimum of cost.

Acting on a theory that the family deserves more consideration than the family car, they're turning their one-and-two-car garages into bedrooms, larger kitchens, playrooms — anything that fills their needs or suits their fancy.

And the cash savings are big because the new-found living space already has a roof, concrete floor, and three framed walls.

The home handyman-and-wife team can do much of the work themselves on this project. They can install insulation, put down tile floors, and do interior finishing.

Batts and blankets of mineral wool insulation, because of their lightness and ease of handling, are a favorite installation project for the husband-and-wife team. Only a few ordinary tools are needed, and when the job is done, the family

Caraco Explained

WHAT'S the caraco? This fashion news-maker is a jacket, waist length or shorter. With or without sleeves, front or back buttoned or buttonless, it's still a caraco. For fall, it appears in partnership with dresses or as a separate jacket.

covering, and (5) Application techniques.

The relation of the shingles, one to the other, form a design on a roof. Many different designs are possible, varying with the size and shape of the shingles as well as in the manner in which they are laid. By finding out what shapes are available and also the different ways the shingles can be laid, the homeowner can pick a design that best suits his house.

Elegance Is Featured In New Dresses

DRESSES are endowed with softness and femininity this fall, showing softened slim lines in day to late-day styles. Keynote is elegant simplicity, freshly interpreted by the use of casual or tailored fabrics for dressy fashions.

A high-waisted look and back interest move to the fore, going along with the easy silhouette. The favored empire presents itself in partnership with either very high or very low necklines.

Art-accentuation takes shape in the form of floating panels from just below the shoulder blades, for the important Directorate look. Lightly-gathered folds of fabric, inset panels, pleats, half-belts and above-the-waist blousing are other interpretations of back interest.

1910s Have Influence

Many fashions out of the pages of history influence new fall dresses, with styling from the 1910s important among them. Waistline-to-hem draperies at the front or side of slender sheaths reflect this influence.

Wide V décolletage in front and back, often combined with surplice closings, is another identifying mark of the pre-World War One look. Reminiscent of this period, too, are bodices with higher-than-normal waistlines, distinct from the empire, for a short-waisted effect.

Some long torsos grace the fall dress picture, with bouffant skirts individualized by decorative touches.

Black Is Important

Color-wise, the "little black dress" seems due for its most important season in years. Pearl-to-charcoal grays, many browns, reds, blues and greens get in the color spotlight.

Wool jersey, a casual fabric with new dress-up manners, is liked for street, afternoon and under-cloak wear. Silk comes in for a full share of fall dress fashion honors. Sheer wool crepe is another contributor to the soft look.

Whatever the fabric, color or style, the emphasis is always on easy movement, in the new crop of fall dresses.

Bright Hues, Slim Lines Dominate New Shoe Styles

ELEGANCE ON AN EASY footing themes new fall shoes, in long, low, comfortable shapes and warm, bright colors. Shoes are longer, tapered and closed.

Heels continue lower, and lower, too, are throatlines that vary from round, square or straight across to deep V's with scallops, cupid's bows and half moons. Sides and backs, though often lowered, are cleverly cut to give foot support.

To make shoes as easy on the foot as they are on the eye, leathers are softer and so is construction, with lighter toeboxes and more flexibility. Textures include "faded calf" with a shiny look and smooth-as-silk feel; suede with a willow finish or smooth matte velvet sheen; kid embossed to simulate fur patterns; soft reptiles and speckled anilines.

Contrasting Textures
Contrasting leather textures—dull and shiny, grainy and smooth, bright and matte or suede and glazed—are combined in all types of shoes.

Basic for all times of day are pumps, closed at heel and toe but sometimes open at the sides. Throatlines move forward with graceful plunge.

Forward interest is emphasized in toe trim. Noteworthy is the demispat, recalling styles of pre-World War I. Other trims are asymmetrical fronts in contrasting tones or textures, draped throats, buckles on straps or without straps and at the side as well as front, and an abundance of bows and flowers.

Spectators continue strong, with trim and comfortable stacked leather heels. Their longer, narrower lasts are often set off with thin straps at instep or ankle.

Sweater Pumps

Sweater pumps are much in evidence, as are some T-straps.

Liked for dress wear, cocktail and evening are closed-toe, halter-back shoes, in bright-colored or traditional black suedes and embossed or printed leathers. Gold and silver shine for formal occasions.

Brown appears in many shades—yellow, heavy, coppery, dark or highly-splashed. There are light and bright red shoes, and in blue the light blue-greens lead, with some dark autumnal blues.

Furnace Fits Into Closet, Heats House

MODERN forced warm air heating plants, small enough to fit into closets, are far more efficient for house heating than the enormous old fashioned furnaces that filled basements with bulky ducts.

Some modern heating plants take as little as 2 1/2 square feet of floor space. For maximum space saving types that carry safety approvals for "zero clearance" can be used with their sides and backs actually touching walls. These plants are fired by either gas or oil.

Another big improvement in heating plant design has been the development of small diameter ducts and high velocity circulation. These ducts, measuring only 3 1/2 inches in diameter fit readily in standard wall spaces between the framing of 2 by 4s. They can be run between floor joists, over a basement or crawl space, or can be fanned out through attic spaces to bring heat down into rooms.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1956
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mars and Jupiter are in the best aspects they have been in some time. A fine outlook for vigorous activities, financial and business transactions, military, government interests. YOLN day.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Sound business, trades (especially those requiring energy, endurance and sick to business) highly successful. A good time for making honest profits. Labor, farming, business can improve.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—You may not be as inventive or creative as usual but you can obtain good results at your occupation, at home, in the classroom if you have faith and the will to win. Push ahead eagerly.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Mars, well positioned, encourages initiative and ambition. Steady application to duty should bring the top results you seek. Not an easy day, but one that will respond to your careful management.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—A fine period for making plans and arrangements for tomorrow when your Sun, Jupiter and other planets will be in excellent aspects. Get ready for a big day. Sound business and business favored for upward swing.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—You should plan, arrange and replenish where you can, and have things ship-shape for an early and prosperous start tomorrow. Mental work, writing, study, analyzing under stimulating influences.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—This could be a day at the end of which you might say, "well, I did it again." Jupiter vibrations encourage all undertakings but you may, nevertheless, have to put forth harder, more concerted effort. Willingness does

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, subtract 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and circle every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Shoe Styles Go American For Autumn

THE "CONTINENTAL" look in men's shoes, so much in evidence on this side of the Atlantic in the past few seasons, has been transmuted for fall into a thoroughly American version that combines the best of both ways of life.

The silhouette has arisen slightly for better fit, and three-four and five-eyelet are seen more than two-eyelets. Yet the tops do not ride the ankle as they did before the 1955 revolution in men's shoes, and detailing around the toe makes them appear more low-slung than they are.

Following the same trend, toes are still long, but not as pointed, and lasts have become narrower through the ball of the foot to conform to the American foot. Leather soles are narrower and thinner, but just as durable because of the new more rugged sole leather.

Variety of Leathers
Not in many seasons has such a variety of leathers appeared in men's shoes. All of them are light in weight and soft—the grained and shrunken leathers as well as the glove and brushed leathers. Grains range from a fine heather to the traditional Scotch pebble and are often combined for texture contrast in dress as well as sport shoes. The natural look of aniline-dyed leather also appears more often both alone and combined with other finishes.

Important types of casual shoes are the moccasin in one- and two-eyelet versions, the slip-on in plain and moccasin-toe treatments and the low-cut turf boot which is a one- or two-eyelet adaption of the Jodhpur. They often employ reverse leathers of much plumper tannages with the luxurious nap of velour, and particularly rich in color.

Fall Lingerie Sleepwear In New Designs

THERE'S A world of fashion in fall lingerie and sleepwear. Slips, robes and gowns reflect Parisian — and American — style trends, with emphasis on a slender, high-waisted silhouette, while pajamas and other warm sleepwear emerge from a melting pot of Oriental, Scandinavian, Mexican, Tyrolean, Italian and early American design ideas.

Empire slips to wear under empire fashions feature a slender, unbroken line dressed up with lace or embroidery trims at bodice and hem. More slim petticoats appear, again with pretty detailing. For wear with late-day dresses and separates, there are bouffant petticoats with fullness softened from a full-to bell-skirted look.

True Empire Line
Full length gowns and robes often display the "true" empire line — unfitted waists and slim-looking fullness flowing from just under an attractively-detailed bustline.

The Oriental sari instigates a wide use of border treatments in pajamas and sleepcoats. Most of the borders depart from the strictly Oriental influence, making use of Provincial, floral and geometric patterns.

A Mexican touch prevails in embroidered yokes with a border feeling for pajama tops and short gowns. From the Italian T-shirt come stripes — vertical, horizontal or both. Stripes that start small and then widen out give a border effect.

Borders at the hem of gowns and border-looks for pajamas have stimulated interest in prints, and Scandinavian, Tyrolean and early American prints show up in warm sleepwear. The ski sweater makes its mark in pajamas with turtle-necked pullover tops. Patterns are lively, colors bright.

Hats Display Richer Look, Full Crowns

HATS in the autumn picture display draping and shaping, richness of detail and sumptuous materials. Full crowns are emphasized, but the brim, or brim-like projection downward from the crown, no longer follows the pushed-forward pose. Newest way to wear at hat is just back of the hairline, with deeper brims definitely arched above the eyebrows.

Worn in this manner, fall versions of the mushroom connet seem to tilt back a tiny bit off the eye-shadowing level. Turbans go high and handsome, and the tall, tall hat appears very new. Some tall turbans are sleek and smooth of outline, rounded like a minaret or straight-sided like a tower, but more often they're artfully draped or crushed in supple, flattering softness.

Take Trims
For day, the turban may be fashioned of heavier or furry-surfaced felts, or wool jersey, velvet or paisley wool. Late-day and evening turbans are splendid in gleaming satin, rich metallics, brocade, velvet and silks.

Magnificent fake jewels, huge square-cut or cabochon stones in jewel shades, framed with flashing rhinestones and baquettes, are usually posed on the formal turban. Inspiration from the flapper days is sometimes evident in high-crowned clothes pulled well down over the ears.

Men's Suits Feature Medium Shades

A STRONG trend to medium shades in men's suits for fall and winter is dominating the current picture in clothing stores and departments, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Suits are coming out of the "dressy dark" stage, and medium grays are particularly popular, followed by blue grays and mid-brown tones.

For the new season, these lighter tones are enhanced with neat, subdued patterns. Muted glen plaid, vertical stripings, small checks, geometric designs, herringbones and slack twists highlight clothiers' new fall stocks.

A newsworthy counterpoint to the basic trend to mid-tones is the resurgence of the dark blues, which until recently were pushed into the background by charcoal gray.

Fabrics are lighter in weight than in previous fall seasons, with medium weight worsteds and flannels, lightweight tweeds and new colorful silk-wool blends sharing the spotlight.

Slim Silhouette
As to style, the slim silhouette with trim, straight, natural lines continues in vogue, with its natural shoulders and narrow, high notch lapels.

The two-button single-breasted model will continue to hold top place, although the three-button model is expected to move rapidly forward.

The double-breasted suit will become somewhat more important than in recent years. This latest version has narrower lapels, more natural shoulders, less overlay and trimmer lines than former double-breasted.

Topcoats and overcoats for fall have been trimmed down in keeping with the current trend to slimmer silhouettes in suits. Shoulders are softened and slightly sloped. The new length is a little shorter and should flatter the appearance of most men.

Dress shirts for fall are trending toward the conservative side, in keeping with the new spirit of simplicity and elegance in men's wear. The all-white shirt will become increasingly important, along with soft staple colors and quiet patterns.

Hats have narrower brims and higher crowns, giving an overall smaller appearance. The new flat top shapes have captured the fancy of many men. The small Ivy League cap is a strong favorite for casual wear.

In the fall footwear picture the Continental influence has become "Americanized" and emerges in a slightly higher silhouette that makes for better fit. Lightweight, soft leathers appear in a wide variety of finishes.

In neckwear, the "Ivy-League" trends in patterns and designs continue, with some modification. Neat executive type patterns are bowing into the style picture. Rep stripes will hold their strong perennial following.

Dressier concepts of styling, soft contrast colors and neat patterns give all types of sportswear a fresh look for fall.

In outerwear, the suburban coat in finger-tip length promises to be a best seller.

Fabrics Vary
SURFACES of new home fabrics vary from smooth and satiny to tweedy and textured.

Collaring Fashion
WHITE collars and neckline fill-ins accessorize fall costumes. Satin is particularly newsworthy in Peter Pan shapes and in large collars.

GOOD COMBINATION:

Your home plans

Our money

Few things matter as much as the home where a family grows together. Owning it, instead of renting, brings a special happiness, permanence, feeling of progress. And owners usually keep their homes in good condition — they know that time and money spent on improvements bring years of comfort. Orphan houses (the rented ones) are frequently neglected.

Our mortgage rates are reasonable, installments can be spread out over years and paid monthly just like rent, with one tremendous difference—each payment brings you closer to complete ownership.

We'll be glad to talk about your home whenever you want—and offer any suggestions we think will be helpful.
